U. S. Wants to Find Out Circumstances That Made Americans Join Captors' Ranks

Washington, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Defense Department says it will investigate the circumstances under which some former American war prisoners in Korea reportedly made false confessions or turned informer to curry favor with Red captors.

The department, Secretary Wilson announced last night, "is using every effort to investigate and establish what happened to these men while they were prisoners, the punishments and sufferings they endured, what false confessions some of them may have made under duress and the effect of the actions of some of them on their fellow prisoners."

Plans Thorough Probe
Commenting that only a few American prisoners were swayed by Communist pressure and abuse while the vast majority resisted, Wilson said:

"We do not as a general principle condone those who made false confessions contrary to the interests of their country, or whose actions caused their fellow prisoners added misery. Such cases will be carefully and sympathetically examined by the services concerned to ascertain whether in any of them there has been an unreasonable failure to measure up to the standard of individual conduct which is expected even of a prisoner of war or deviations from standards of behavior prescribed by law."

Except to say the inquiries would be made on an individual basis, would be just and fair and "in line with established facts and evidence and the rules, regulations and laws" relating to military conduct, Wilson did not specify how the investigation will be handled.

May Skip Individuals
His statement left open the question of whether former prisoners, released from service after their return to the United States, might be invited to answer questions of the military.

Some Pentagon officials speculated the inquiry instituted by Wilson might be confined to inquiries into circumstances which brought about confessions or informing by prisoners, without following through with any attempt at formal action in individual cases.

The allegations of false confessions have revolved primarily about Communist efforts to create evidence that the U. S. resorted to bacteriological warfare in the Korean campaign.

Suggests Mothers Go

Los Angeles, Sept. 25 (AP)—A Legionnaire says the government should fly to Korea the mothers of 23 American prisoners listed by a Communist correspondent as having refused repatriation. Harry Meyers, director of special events for the Los Angeles County Council of the American Legion, said last night he was organizing a national Commander Art Connell in Indianapolis to put the matter before the government. "It would be a tremendous psychological victory for us over the Reds if the mothers were able to talk their sons into returning to freedom," Myers said.

Held on Homicide

Infantry Lieutenant Tells Police Wife Fell on War Bayonet

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—An army veteran was held on a charge of homicide today after his wife died of a chest wound inflicted by a World War 2 bayonet. Mrs. Margaret McKeon, 27, mother of three, died on the operating table at Mother Cabrini Hospital less than two hours after her chest was pierced at her home at 143 Wadsworth avenue. Her husband, William, 37, was quoted as saying his wife stumbled and accidentally fell on the seven-inch blade as he was showing her the bayonet at 1 a. m. (EST).

Just Came Home

McKeon, an infantry lieutenant in World War 2, said the bayonet was a war souvenir. He was quoted as saying his wife had returned to their four-room apartment, near the George Washington Bridge Plaza, just before she was injured.

McKeon, employed by the U. S. Rubber Co., in Passaic, N. J., told police he called his family doctor immediately. When the doctor arrived, an ambulance and police were called.

The McKeon's three children were not awakened by the fatal accident. They are Margaret, 10; William, Jr., 8; and Constance, 20 months.

Democrat Cites Awesome Weapons U. S. Faces; Republican Wants Budget Balanced

Washington, Sept. 25 (AP)—A Republican and a Democratic senator today voiced diametrically opposed views on whether taxes can be cut without impairing America's defense against awesome new weapons.

"This is no time to drop our guard," said Sen. Hunt (D-Wyo.), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee. He pictured the Eisenhower administration as pinched between "golden campaign promises" to reduce taxes and its responsibility to keep the nation secure.

But Sen. Williams (R-Del.), a member of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, said he believes that, barring an unforeseen emergency, taxes can be lowered and the budget balanced without endangering national defense.

Talk at Interviews

They expressed their views in separate interviews against the backdrop of yesterday's three-hour closed-door session of the National Security Council. The top strategy group, without disclosing any decisions, discussed defense plans in the light of Russia's recent claim of mastery over the dread hydrogen bomb.

While no information about the meeting was released, it became known that the H-bomb—once widely considered technically impossible—may be so cheap and simple that any nation could quickly produce an arsenal of them.

Until recently, the supposition has been that no hydrogen bomb could be set off without the unearthly heat of an atomic bomb to trigger it. But American bomb makers are now said to be working on a new technique which does away with such a requirement.

No details, of course, could be disclosed. However, it was understood the basic facts involved were considered in early atomic work some 20 years ago—and (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Malden Fire Damage Is $10,000 To Home; Other Wrecked Inside

Two fires one block apart in Malden Thursday afternoon destroyed one dwelling and damaged the interior of another.

The county Mutual Aid system was called upon when the second fire was discovered while firemen were still battling the first blaze.

The home of Harold Clum was destroyed in the first fire, which was discovered about 12:15 p. m. Although the lower portions of the walls of the frame dwelling were still standing, the building is considered a "total loss," Saugerties Fire Chief Russell O'Dea reported.

An early and tentative estimate of loss reported by the owner to Chief O'Dea placed the loss at about $10,000.

The second fire, discovered at 2:30 p. m., followed an oil stove explosion in the home of William

Barring of Union Switch Deemed First Step Toward Merger of 2 Bodies

St. Louis, Sept. 25 (AP)—The AFL's annual convention scheduled a busy wind-up session today with a "no-raiding" agreement with the CIO due for delegate approval.

The agreement tentatively worked out by AFL and CIO leaders to outlaw "raids" between the rival federations requires approval of both the AFL and CIO conventions before it becomes effective next Jan. 1.

"Raiding" is the union term for efforts to get groups of already-organized workers to switch allegiance from one union to another. The pact is regarded by union leaders as a necessary first step toward an AFL-CIO merger.

An important qualification of the agreement, which was expected to get approval both at today's AFL convention and at the CIO convention in Cleveland in November, is that it binds only the AFL and CIO unions later signing it.

Among AFL unions which have indicated they may not go along are the Teamsters, Carpenters and Pattern Makers Unions. Several CIO unions also have been cool to the idea. But AFL and CIO leaders hope the pact, once in effect, will eventually be endorsed by all unions.

"It's a step in the right direction," was the way Dave Beck, president of the teamsters, described it. "But I'm going to let my executive board decide what to do about it next February."

Chief O'Dea reported after investigation that the fire in the Clum home apparently started from sparks coming from the chimney from a wood fire in the fireplace had gotten under the shingles on the roof and ignited the roof. No personal injuries were reported in either fire, the chief said.

The C. A. Lynch company reported back to its station at 3:39 p. m., and one minute later an alarm came to Mutual Aid headquarters for a grass fire on the Neighborhood road. Ulster Hose, which had been covering for Glasco, was dispatched. The fire, described by firemen as not serious, was extinguished in about 20 minutes. ## Orange GOP Would Outlaw Communists

Goshen, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Orange County Republican Committee last night passed a resolution, introduced by former Congressman Hamilton Fish, to petition the state legislature to outlaw the Communist party in New York state.

Also at the meeting, Philip Levy, of Newburgh, was elected the new committee chairman. Levy succeeds Charles Dusenberry, who last month was appointed superintendent of the New York city assay office.

Polish Professor Seeks Query Rest

Hopes He Can Soon Get Chance to Tell All How Country Thinks

Washington, Sept. 25 (AP)—Dr. Marek Stanislaw Korowicz today sought a holiday from questions about his flight from communism, but with hopes he soon can "tell the world what the Poles really think."

For almost three hours yesterday, the Polish law professor turned diplomat detailed for the House Un-American Activities Committee "the painful and criminal nature of the Communist regime in Poland."

"The Soviet gauleiters have turned Poland into one immense totalitarian prison camp," he testified, and his words were beamed behind the iron curtain by the Voice of America and Radio Free Europe.

Korowicz told of how he deserted Poland's United Nations staff in New York city last week to seek political asylum in the United States.

Other Breaks Reported

Even as he spoke, there came reports of further breaks by Poles with their Communist government. The latest: Jan Galewicz, Polish consul general at New York earlier this year, and Mi-chal Wionczek and Henryk Gall, two Polish press service newsmen at New York.

The State Department said it understood Galewicz left the United States June 19, after defecting from his official position and is now in Montevideo, Uruguay. The department quoted the Polish embassy as saying Gall had quit the Polish government press service and left for Mexico by car last May 9. It said it had no information that Wionczek had also gone to Mexico.

Only Few Communists

Korowicz, 50 and graying and a distinguished professor of international law while at the University of Krakow, gave a matter-of-fact account of life in Poland.

He said only about six per cent of the population in his homeland are members of the Communist party. "Were free elections possible in my country, which unhappily they are not, I do not believe that the Communist party would receive more than two per cent of the total vote," he said.

Barge Helpless in Wind

New Orleans, Sept. 25 (AP)—The coast guard reported today that a tug and its barge with 50 men aboard were helpless at the mouth of the Mississippi river as a hurricane plowed through the Gulf of Mexico about 430 miles south of Pensacola, Fla.

The weather bureau said the hurricane, with winds up to 90 miles an hour, was headed generally in the direction of New Orleans on its present course. "But," the bureau added, "while nothing is certain, it looks like it will change its course to the north."

Schinagle Will Face Jury Soon

Youth Is Unemotional as He Waives Hearing on Charge He Slew Sweetheart

Upper Sandusky, Ohio, Sept. 25 (AP)—Dead-pan and silent, Roy Schinagle Jr. waived preliminary examination on a first-degree murder charge today and was bound to the grand jury without bond.

Schinagle, 19-year-old Ohio Wesleyan University sophomore accused of the murder of his campus sweetheart, pretty Cynthia Pfeil, 19, of White Plains, N. Y., was taken before Justice of the Peace L. C. Schoenberger shortly after 9 a. m. (EST) today.

The arraignment was brief. Schinagle entered the justice of the peace court with Sheriff Dean McAllister. Only other persons present were the youth's attorney, R. H. Stansbery of Upper Sandusky, and a few newsmen.

Schinagle did not speak. He stood silent and the expression on his face remained the same—calm and unemotional.

After reading the charge accusing Schinagle of "deliberate and premeditated" murder of Miss Pfeil, Schoenberger asked the attorney if Schinagle intended to enter a plea. It was then Stansbery asked the court for permission to waive the preliminary hearing.

To Meet Soon
Authorities said they expected the grand jury to go into session sometime within the next two weeks.

The youth was returned to his county jail cell immediately after the arraignment.

Schinagle, a fraternity boy who says he wants to be a minister, confessed killing Cynthia a week ago last night, Sheriff McAllister said.

Communist Party Called Subversive By Regents Board

Agency Is First to Hear Defense and Render Verdict Against Jobs for Reds

Albany, Sept. 25 (AP)—The New York State Board of Regents has declared the Communist party subversive.

It is believed to be the first time that any government agency had put the Communist party on trial for subversion, heard the defense and found it guilty.

Communists have been tried before as individuals.

The decision yesterday by the 15-member board, the ruling body of the state's educational system, bars members of both the national and state Communist party from holding public school jobs.

The board adopted unanimously the report of its special committee which held hearings under the state's Feinberg Law and decided that the Communist party teaches and advocates overthrow of the government by force.

Announces Appeal

A spokesman for the Communist party in New York city said party attorneys would appeal the decision in court.

The three-man committee held 20 hearings between last Dec. 5 and June 25 and heard 2,300 pages of testimony.

Its 4,000-word report concluded that: "The Communist party of the United States of America and . . . of the state of New York are each subversive as defined by law, in that they advocate, advise, teach and embrace the doctrine that the government of the United States should be overthrown by force and violence."

Challenge Law

The Feinberg Law, enacted in 1949, was challenged in courts by the Communist party. The U. S. Supreme Court last year upheld its constitutionality.

The law requires the Regents to conduct hearings and to list organizations they consider subversive. Under the law, a member of any organization on the list is barred automatically from a public school job. So far, hearings have been held only on the Communist party.

Yule Seal Sale '53 Advisers Picked

Eight Are Named to Group to Guide Drive Under Chairman J. L. Rowe

The 1953 Christmas Seal Sale Advisory Committee was organized at a meeting Thursday afternoon at the office of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association in Kingston.

James L. Rowe is general chairman of the seal sale, which is scheduled to begin November 16. Advisory committee members are: Mrs. Raymond Gross, Miss Gloria Massa, Louis R. Netter, Miss Alice Scardfield and Robert M. Peebles, all of Kingston; Mrs. John R. Warren of Hurley; and Augustus Modjeska of Saugerties.

To Have Town Chairmen

A chairman or co-chairman for each township in the county will be appointed.

Preliminary plans discussed at Thursday's meeting include possibility of bringing Lee Mitchell Hodges, sole survivor of the group which started the Christmas Seal Sale in the United States in 1907, to Kingston to address a joint meeting of service clubs on Nov. 25.

Opening Pageant

Plans to have a pageant to mark the opening of the sale were also discussed, with Miss Massa being named chairman of a committee to work out further details. As in past years, the pageant will be built around the year's Christmas Seal design, which this year depicts a young child singing carols. Chairman Rowe also announced the appointment of Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Montgomery to a committee for volunteers to help prepare the seals for the mail.

Strasbourg, France, Sept. 25 (AP)—Over vigorous West German protests, the European Consultative Assembly today approved an emblem consisting of 15 gold stars on a blue background as the insignia of the Council of Europe.

A French-British majority pushed the proposal through the half-filled assembly session on two roll call votes, 49-17 and 54-17. A West German motion to refer the matter back to committee was brushed aside. The Germans objected because one of the 15 stars represents the Saar basin, an associate member of the council.

May Censor News

South Korean Officials Discuss Checking All U. S. Dispatches

Seoul, Sept. 25 (AP)—The South Korean government may start censoring all news dispatches from this country, an official spokesman said today.

Dr. Karl Hong Kee, director of the ROK public information office, said "there is nothing definite at the present time," but he acknowledged "there is a lot of talk" among government officials about such a move.

The UN Command has handled military censorship in Korea for the past three years. The ROK government has had no control over stories sent from the country.

President Syngman Rhee's government has cracked down on Korean newspapers at times of political unrest, however, and only recently it announced plans to compel foreign news agencies and correspondents to register. The proposal awaits adoption by the national assembly.

The first alarm was answered by the Centerville Fire Department. The apparatus and men of the Centerville and Snyder companies were dispatched to the second fire, and a call to Mutual Aid Headquarters at Kingston's Central Station brought the Glasco department to the fire scene. Ulster Hose Company was notified to cover Glasco's territory.

Chief O'Dea reported after investigation that the fire in the Clum home apparently started from sparks coming from the chimney from a wood fire in the fireplace had gotten under the shingles on the roof and ignited the roof. No personal injuries were reported in either fire, the chief said.

The C. A. Lynch company reported back to its station at 3:39 p. m., and one minute later an alarm came to Mutual Aid headquarters for a grass fire on the Neighborhood road. Ulster Hose, which had been covering for Glasco, was dispatched. The fire, described by firemen as not serious, was extinguished in about 20 minutes. Probable cause was listed as a cigarette tossed from an automobile.

Schinagle Will Face Jury Soon

Youth Is Unemotional as He Waives Hearing on Charge He Slew Sweetheart

Upper Sandusky, Ohio, Sept. 25 (AP)—Dead-pan and silent, Roy Roger Schinagle Jr. waived preliminary examination on a first-degree murder charge today and was bound to the grand jury without bond.

Schinagle, 19-year-old Ohio Wesleyan University sophomore accused of the murder of his campus sweetheart, pretty Cynthia Pfeil, 19, of White Plains, N. Y., was taken before Justice of the Peace L. C. Schoenberger shortly after 9 a. m. (EST) today.

The arraignment was brief. Schinagle entered the justice of the peace court with Sheriff Dean McAllister. Only other persons present were the youth's attorney, R. H. Stansbury of Upper Sandusky, and a few newsmen. Schinagle did not speak. He stood silent and the expression on his face remained the same—calm and unemotional.

After reading the charge accusing Schinagle of "deliberate and premeditated" murder of Miss Pfeil, Schoenberger asked the attorney if Schinagle intended to enter a plea. It was then Stansbury asked the court for permission to waive the preliminary hearing.

To Meet Soon
Authorities said they expected the grand jury to go into session sometime within the next two weeks.

The youth was returned to his county jail immediately after the arraignment.

Schinagle, a fraternity boy who says he wants to be a minister, confessed killing Cynthia a week ago last night, Sheriff McAllister said.

Communist Party Called Subversive By Regents Board

Agency Is First to Hear Defense and Render Verdict Against Jobs for Reds

Albany, Sept. 25 (AP)—The New York State Board of Regents has declared the Communist party subversive.

It is believed to be the first time that any government agency had put the Communist party on trial for subversion, heard the defense and found it guilty.

Communists have been tried before as individuals.

The decision yesterday by the 15-member board, the ruling body of the state's educational system, bars members of both the national and state Communist party from holding public school jobs.

The board adopted unanimously the report of its special committee which held hearings under the state's Feinberg Law and decided that the Communist party teaches and advocates overthrow of the government by force.

Announces Appeal
A spokesman for the Communist party in New York city said party attorneys would appeal the decision in court.

The three-man committee held 20 hearings between last Dec. 5 and June 25 and heard 2,300 pages of testimony.

Its 4,000-word report concluded that:

"The Communist party of the United States of America and *** of the state of New York are each subversive as defined by law, in that they advocate, advise, teach and embrace the doctrine that the government of the United States should be overthrown by force and violence."

Challenge Law
The Feinberg Law, enacted in 1949, was challenged in courts by the Communist party. The U. S. Supreme Court last year upheld its constitutionality.

The law requires the Regents to conduct hearings and to list organizations they consider subversive. Under the law, a member of any organization on the list is barred automatically from a public school job. So far, hearings have been held only on the Communist party.

The 1953 Christmas Seal Sale Advisory Committee was organized at a meeting Thursday afternoon at the office of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association in Kingston.

James L. Rowe is general chairman of the seal sale, which is scheduled to begin November 16. Advisory committee members are: Mrs. Raymond Gross, Miss Gloria Massa, Louis R. Netter, Miss Alice Scardfield and Robert M. Peebles, all of Kingston; Mrs. John R. Warren of Hurley; Mrs. Albert Montgomery of Woodstock; and Augustus Modjeska of Saugerties.

To Have Town Chairmen
A chairman or co-chairman for each township in the county will be appointed.

Preliminary plans discussed at Thursday's meeting include possibility of bringing Lee Mitchell Hodges, sole survivor of the group which started the Christmas Seal Sale in the United States in 1907, to Kingston to address a joint meeting of service clubs on Nov. 25.

Opening Pageant
Plans to have a pageant to mark the opening of the sale are also discussed, with Miss Massa being named chairman of a committee to work out further details.

As in past years, the pageant will be built around the year's Christmas Seal design, which this year depicts a young child singing carols. Chairman Rowe also announced the appointment of Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Montgomery to a committee for volunteers to help prepare the seals for the mail.

Vote on Emblem
Strasbourg, France, Sept. 25 (AP)—Over vigorous West German protests, the European Consultative Assembly today approved an emblem consisting of 15 gold stars on a blue background as the insignia of the Council of Europe.

A French-British majority pushed the proposal through the half-filled assembly session on two roll votes, 49-17 and 54-17. A West German motion to refer the matter back to committee was brushed aside. The Germans objected because one of the 15 stars represents the Saar basin, an associate member of the council.

Hoard Predicts Dodgers Are Series Winners in Kiwanis Talk

The Brooklyn Dodgers will win the 1953 World Series, Clinton H. Hoard, veteran sportswriter, predicted at a Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting here on Thursday.

Addressing Kiwanians and schoolboys attending a program arranged in observance of National Kids Day, Hoard repeated a prediction he had made under his by-line that the Dodgers would take the series in five or six games.

Contending that Brooklyn has its best club in years and that competition in the National League was better than in the American League, Hoard said, "If the Dodgers don't win this year, they'll never win it."

Hoard's talk contained numerous stories of major league players and managers, gathered by him in his 37 years as a sportswriter. He has covered every

May Censor News

South Korean Officials Discuss Checking All U. S. Dispatches

Seoul, Sept. 25 (AP)—The South Korean government may start censoring all news dispatches from this country, an official spokesman said today.

Dr. Karl Hong Kee, director of the ROK public information office, said "there is nothing definite at the present time," but he acknowledged "there is a lot of talk" among government officials about such a move.

The UN Command has handled military censorship in Korea for the past three years. The ROK government has had no control over stories sent from the country.

President Syngman Rhee's government has cracked down on Korean newspapers at times of political unrest, however, and only recently it announced plans to compel foreign news agencies and correspondents to register. The proposal awaits adoption by the national assembly.

Action Disapproved

Los Angeles, Sept. 25 (AP)—A Superior Court suit asks that Elliott Roosevelt's wife and two other persons be removed as trustees for a 6-million-dollar fund. ## Manhattan Looks Deserted as CD Test Is Success

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—Eight million New Yorkers scurried for shelter at 9:30 a. m. today as sirens throughout the city signalled a practice atom bomb alert.

In theory, two atom bombs landed in downtown Manhattan and in Queens in the city's biggest Civil Defense exercise.

All automobiles on the streets were forced to halt during the 15 minute drill. Pedestrians were directed to shelter areas by Civil Defense wardens. Workers in office buildings and residents of apartment houses fled to pre-designated safety areas.

Train, airplane and subway service continued in operation, most other activity in the metropolis came to a halt.

The shrill wail of hundreds of sirens came near the end of the morning rush hour with many persons still on their way to work.

Within moments the ordinarily teeming streets appeared virtually deserted.

Clear Streets

Automobiles parked double as drivers and occupants ran into the shelter of nearby buildings.

The Rockefeller Plaza area, usually alive with tourists, was cleared within a minute after the alert except for a lone policeman standing near the ice skating rink.

Firebells in the buildings sounded simultaneously with the sirens to send office workers to inner corridors or underground areas.

On the waterfront, longshoremen and truck drivers halted work to seek cover.

Side streets in the Criminal Courts Building were escorted to basement shelters. Prisoners assigned to housekeeping duties in City Prison were hustled back into their cells.

Station Cleared

At Pennsylvania Station, travelers and railroad employees were cleared from the main concourse in less than a half minute and herded into waiting and baggage rooms.

Persons actually lined up to buy tickets for a train leaving at 9:40 a. m. for the New Jersey coast, however, were allowed to complete their purchases and to board the train.

Schinagle Will

Ohio, strongly denied one of their co-eds was involved in a triangle which police believe may have led to the murder.

Officers found three letters in Schinagle's Delaware, Ohio, room from the Wittenberg girl and one he wrote but never mailed to her. Delaware County Sheriff Earl Pravel said the letters showed there "obviously" was some feeling between the two. The girl wrote "romantically and signed at least one letter with love," he said.

Deputy Warren Staff said he thought the letters indicated "a love affair was blossoming" between the two.

W. Emerson Reck, Wittenberg vice president, said the girl—an attractive, 19-year-old sophomore—was an old school chum of Cynthia's from White Plains.

Asked for Address

He said she told him yesterday before leaving school to attend Cynthia's funeral in New York that she had written Schinagle only to learn the whereabouts of Miss Pfeil.

Other letters found in the room where Cynthia had lived while working temporarily in Cleveland added to police suspicions that Schinagle was growing tired of the girl he said he intended to marry.

David E. Kerr, captain of the Cleveland police department's homicide squad, said he found a letter to Cynthia from Schinagle indicating he was reluctant to marry her. Schinagle, of Mayfield Heights, told police he had made Cynthia pregnant. And in a letter, Kerr said, he quoted a supposed section of Ohio law saying when a girl was older than a boy the boy was not responsible as far as pregnancy is concerned.

Kerr said he was told by acquaintances of Miss Pfeil in Cleveland that Schinagle had beaten her several times while both were freshmen last year at Ohio Wesleyan.

Stansbery, who will represent Schinagle, is a former Wyandot county sheriff's deputy and was once a member of the Ohio Legislature.

Two Barges Sink, One Captain Lost

Albany, Sept. 25 (AP)—A tug rammed and sank two barges in the Hudson river early today, and police said a crewman on one of the barges was believed to have drowned.

The accident occurred between the Dunn Memorial bridge, which spans the river between Albany and Rensselaer, and the port of Albany. The port is about a mile south of the bridge.

Police said the skipper of one of the craft, the Marian O'Neill, was believed trapped aboard the vessel and drowned.

John Collins Missing
They identified him as John Collins, and the Coast Guard said he was from Brooklyn. (No street address available.)

Two other craft involved were said to be the Ellen Bouchard out of Brooklyn, a towing vessel, and the Frank A. Lowry, a freight and towing vessel, out of Athens, the Coast Guard reported.

Further details were unavailable. The Coast Guard said it would investigate the mishap.

Plan Biggest Building

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—Plans reportedly are under way for building a 20-story, 100-million-dollar merchandise mart which will span two city blocks now occupied by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The proposed structure would cover the area between 9th and 10th avenues and 31st and 33rd streets, it was learned yesterday. In terms of total floor area, it would be the largest building in the world. Rail and truck accommodations within the building are planned. The flat roof could be used for helicopter landings.

Two Barges Sink, One Captain Lost

Albany, Sept. 25 (AP)—A tug rammed and sank two barges in the Hudson river early today, and police said a crewman on one of the barges was believed to have drowned.

The accident occurred between the Dunn Memorial bridge, which spans the river between Albany and Rensselaer, and the port of Albany. The port is about a mile south of the bridge.

Police said the skipper of one of the craft, the Marian O'Neill, was believed trapped aboard the vessel and drowned.

John Collins Missing
They identified him as John Collins, and the Coast Guard said he was from Brooklyn. (No street address available).

Two other craft involved, were said to be the Ellen Bouchard out of Brooklyn, a towing vessel, and the Frank A. Lowry, a freight and towing vessel, out of Athens, the Coast Guard reported.

Further details were unavailable.

The Coast Guard said it would investigate the mishap.

Plan Biggest Building

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—Plans reportedly are under way for building a 20-story, 100-million-dollar merchandise mart which will span two city blocks now occupied by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The proposed structure would cover the area between 9th and 10th avenues and 31st and 33rd streets, it was learned yesterday. In terms of total floor area, it would be the largest building in the world. Rail and truck accommodations within the building are planned. The flat roof could be used for helicopter landings.

WORLD'S ONLY V8

The 1953 Buick Super Riviera.
Wire wheel covers, illustrated,

We'll get right to the point.

The comments we've been getting from new Buick owners about the new Twin-Turbine Dynaflo are terrific.

And the reason is—this fully automatic transmission is, in itself, terrific.

It has a new, firm, solid "take-hold"—gives you instant getaway response.

It has new quiet—you can barely hear the acceleration build-up.

It has unique and utter simplicity of operation. You just move your Selector into Drive range, press the pedal, and go. That's all.

But the sweetest thing of all about this TT Dynaflo is its smoothness.

You move from standstill to your legal speed in one progressive build-up of power delivery.

You feel a constant "carry" of forward motion, unbroken in any way—because here no gear-shifting takes place, either manually or automatically.

Even your deceleration is infinitely smooth and gradual, with the cushioned control of flowing oil slowing down.

Wouldn't you like to sample this wonderful new getaway and pleasant quiet and immaculate smoothness?

We'll be glad to seat you at the wheel of a new 1953 Buick with Twin-Turbine Dynaflo—and let the thrills come where they may. Drop in soon, won't you?

AN AUTUMN WALK

It is wonderful and a vaguely sad thing to take a walk in the autumn of the year. One pauses and regards the glory of the trees with leaves changing to every imaginable color and to a few colors the mind of man is too poor to imagine. All this gives the season a slightly festive air but it is the sort of gaiety a man experiences when a beautiful woman he loves very much comes to tell him goodbye for a time, wearing all her finery in preparation for the trip.

But the sadness of autumn is the sweet sadness of pleasant memories of the summer and joy filters through the reflective mood to call to the mind of the man who walks through autumn the seasons that are ahead. A neighbor is burning the leaves that have fallen and his "Hello" breaks the mood for a moment and remarks are exchanged about what a nuisance it is to have to rake the yard every day.

The sunshine is warm and golden, though not so warm as the sunshine of summer which wilts the collar of the man who walks in it. There is nip in the air in the early morning and it is cool, almost cold at night.

It is a wonderful thing to take a walk in the autumn, to feel the fallen leaves underfoot, to smell the smoke and swing your arms until the blood tingles in your fingertips and you are aware of what a fine thing it is to be a man and alive and taking a walk in the world.

DIPLOMATIC REFUGEE

Dr. Marek Korowicz, a member of the Polish delegation to the United Nations in New York, is the most recent prominent refugee from behind the Iron Curtain. Korowicz, an author and professor of international law as well as a diplomat, sought asylum from our government a few days after he arrived in New York City to attend the session of the United Nations General Assembly. He said that he had not sought to be sent to this country, had even discouraged the idea at first. But after a time it occurred to him that his trip to the United States might provide the opportunity to escape from a tyranny he has hated for years.

Refugees such as Korowicz are one source of information about conditions behind the Iron Curtain. He says that 95 per cent of the people of Poland are opposed to communism. Men have a tendency to shape facts to suit their own beliefs and perhaps the percentage is not so high as Korowicz thinks it is. But the number of prominent Poles who have made their way to political asylum through one trick or another indicates that dissatisfaction with the present Polish regime must be high indeed.

Heated socks, which work on the same principle as the electric blanket, are being turned out by a company in Illinois. At last a practical use for an idea first conceived by the impractical joker who gave the first hot-foot.

CHEAP LABOR

Who is to blame for the "wetbacks?" This names denotes the illegal Mexican immigrants, so called because many swim across the Rio Grande to work on Texas farms. Their number may be judged by the fact that last year half a million were turned back by inspectors. As the border is meagerly patrolled, at least as many more must get through.

The "wetbacks" work for wages which an American would scorn. They are preyed upon by sharpers and vicious elements, and because of their poverty-stricken living conditions, help to spread vice and disease. Attorney General Herbert Brownell, investigating the problem, called it shocking and promised administration action.

This has stirred up the people responsible for the "wetbacks," Southern California farmers are crying that "over-zealous law enforcement" is causing a labor shortage. Apparently they oppose limiting the supply of cheap labor. Often all the Mexican farm worker gets is food and lodging; his nominal wages are deducted from his keep. Naturally

NEW YORK ELECTIONS

The city of New York is probably, all-in-all, the largest in all the world. New York houses the major economic interests of the country. Among 8,500,000 human beings, there should be a larger number of managerial brains. New York undoubtedly contains an extraordinarily large number. For instance, the best managed economic units in the United States, the United States Steel Corporation, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Standard Oil Companies of New York and New Jersey are situated in New York.

Nevertheless, the city is not competently managed. Despite local patriotism, which grows angry whenever such an obvious fact is mentioned, it is an unusually filthy city. I travel a good deal and I have never seen an equally unkempt city. Yet, it was, in my childhood, a clean and even beautiful place, except for a few slums.

Under Fiorello La Guardia, the city tried to become a welfare state, thus attracting families who prefer to live on relief to an astonishing number. New slum areas were thus developed; even more, some of the finest streets have been reduced to slums. Yet a citizen, living under such conditions has the same kind of vote as one living on Fifth Avenue—the north end of which is now a blighted area. The politicians try to hold such votes by doing small favors which in the aggregate reduce the finances of the city and benefit no one.

New York is operating one of the largest railway systems—the subways. This requires managerial skill of the highest order. It requires a complete divorce from partisan politics. For years, the subway system was a political football until it was actually bankrupt. Some efforts are now being made to operate it on a businesslike basis, but with only small success. The kind of a man who is willing to be New York's Mayor is generally unfit by training and experience to handle so huge a problem. Few citizens of outstanding capacity have presented themselves for this position in nearly 40 years. The last one was John Purroy Mitchell, who was Mayor from 1914 to 1917.

The recent Democratic primaries disclosed all the weaknesses of a city in which 8,500,000 human beings live. At first, a number of singularly incompetent politicians presented themselves for the nomination, including the present incumbent, Vincent Impellitteri. None of the candidates possesses managerial qualifications. The most competent public administrator the city has known for decades, Robert Moses, declines to run for Mayor because he will not engage in a quarrel over religious, racial and sectarian issues—which is what these municipal campaigns are reduced to.

Robert Wagner, Jr., who won the Democratic nomination, is the son of the Senator who gave his name to the Wagner Act—a law that Lee Pressman, who had admitted that he once was a Communist, wrote for him. The junior Wagner is a personable gentleman but he lacks managerial experience. It is in a political partnership with Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., whose greatest claim is that he is not only his father's son but bears his name. The junior Roosevelt aspires to become Governor of the State of New York, in imitation of his father's emergence to the Presidency.

While handsome, affable, even gay, the junior Roosevelt possesses no managerial skills. He is no more fit to be Governor of the huge State of New York than he would be to manage the United States Steel Corporation. Yet, should Wagner be elected Mayor and come into control of the decadent Tammany Hall, the junior Roosevelt might be nominated as Governor and even elected, a sorry successor to the administratively competent Dewey.

The fact is that too large a part of the better population of New York that works there, lives outside the city limits. Also, many who continue to live in this large city have lost interest in its political affairs. They have thrown up their hands in disgust and distress. Thus, too many of those who have a vested interest in the prosperity, competent management of the city, and the orderly processes of municipal administration, do not vote in its elections and play no part in its politics.

In a way, this is understandable because it grows increasingly difficult to vote at all, to make a choice between Mr. Nobody and Mr. Nothing. Therefore, one stops voting. It is all wrong, but it is understandable.

LONG TERM ILLNESS

Now that the span of life has reached 67 years and that the death rate at birth and during the first year of life has been reduced from 3 in 10 to less than 1 in 25, it would seem that the medical profession has reached its limit in fighting disease. While it is true that the life span has been lengthened and that our new drugs are saving the lives of the young and middle-aged at their most productive years, there still remain our older men and women, who may continue to live, but with less comfort than they need, due to chronic illness.

What is chronic illness? In Medical Clinics of North America, New York Issue, Dr. Martin Cherkasky, Director, Montefiore Hospital, New York City, states that "chronic illness is an impairment in health that requires an extended period of medical supervision. This may involve ambulatory (patient able to walk about), home, hospital or other institutional care, or various combinations of this care."

Chronic illness may not be disabling. The disability, however, prevents him from following his usual or normal activities. These disabling illnesses are: heart diseases, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, nervous and mental diseases, arthritis, diabetes, the kidney, tuberculosis, cancer, diabetes, asthma.

Dr. Cherkasky points out that chronic or long term illness is not "hopeless." On the basis of past experience, diseases which appear uncontrollable can be expected, through new discoveries, to be prevented or ameliorated. All chronic diseases and old age do not necessarily go together. The great majority of chronic diseases occur during ages 15 to 64. However, during the past 50 years, with new methods of preventing communicable diseases, newer knowledge of food values, and the new antibiotics (germ killing drugs), the average life span has been so extended that there are just that many more who, while growing older, have gradually developed chronic disease.

In acute disease when the period of illness is short, the disturbance of family and social life is not serious; in chronic disease, aside from pain and discomfort, the social and emotional disturbances are of great importance. "The illness sets in motion a whole chain of events which threaten the relationships he has built up with his family and society over many years."

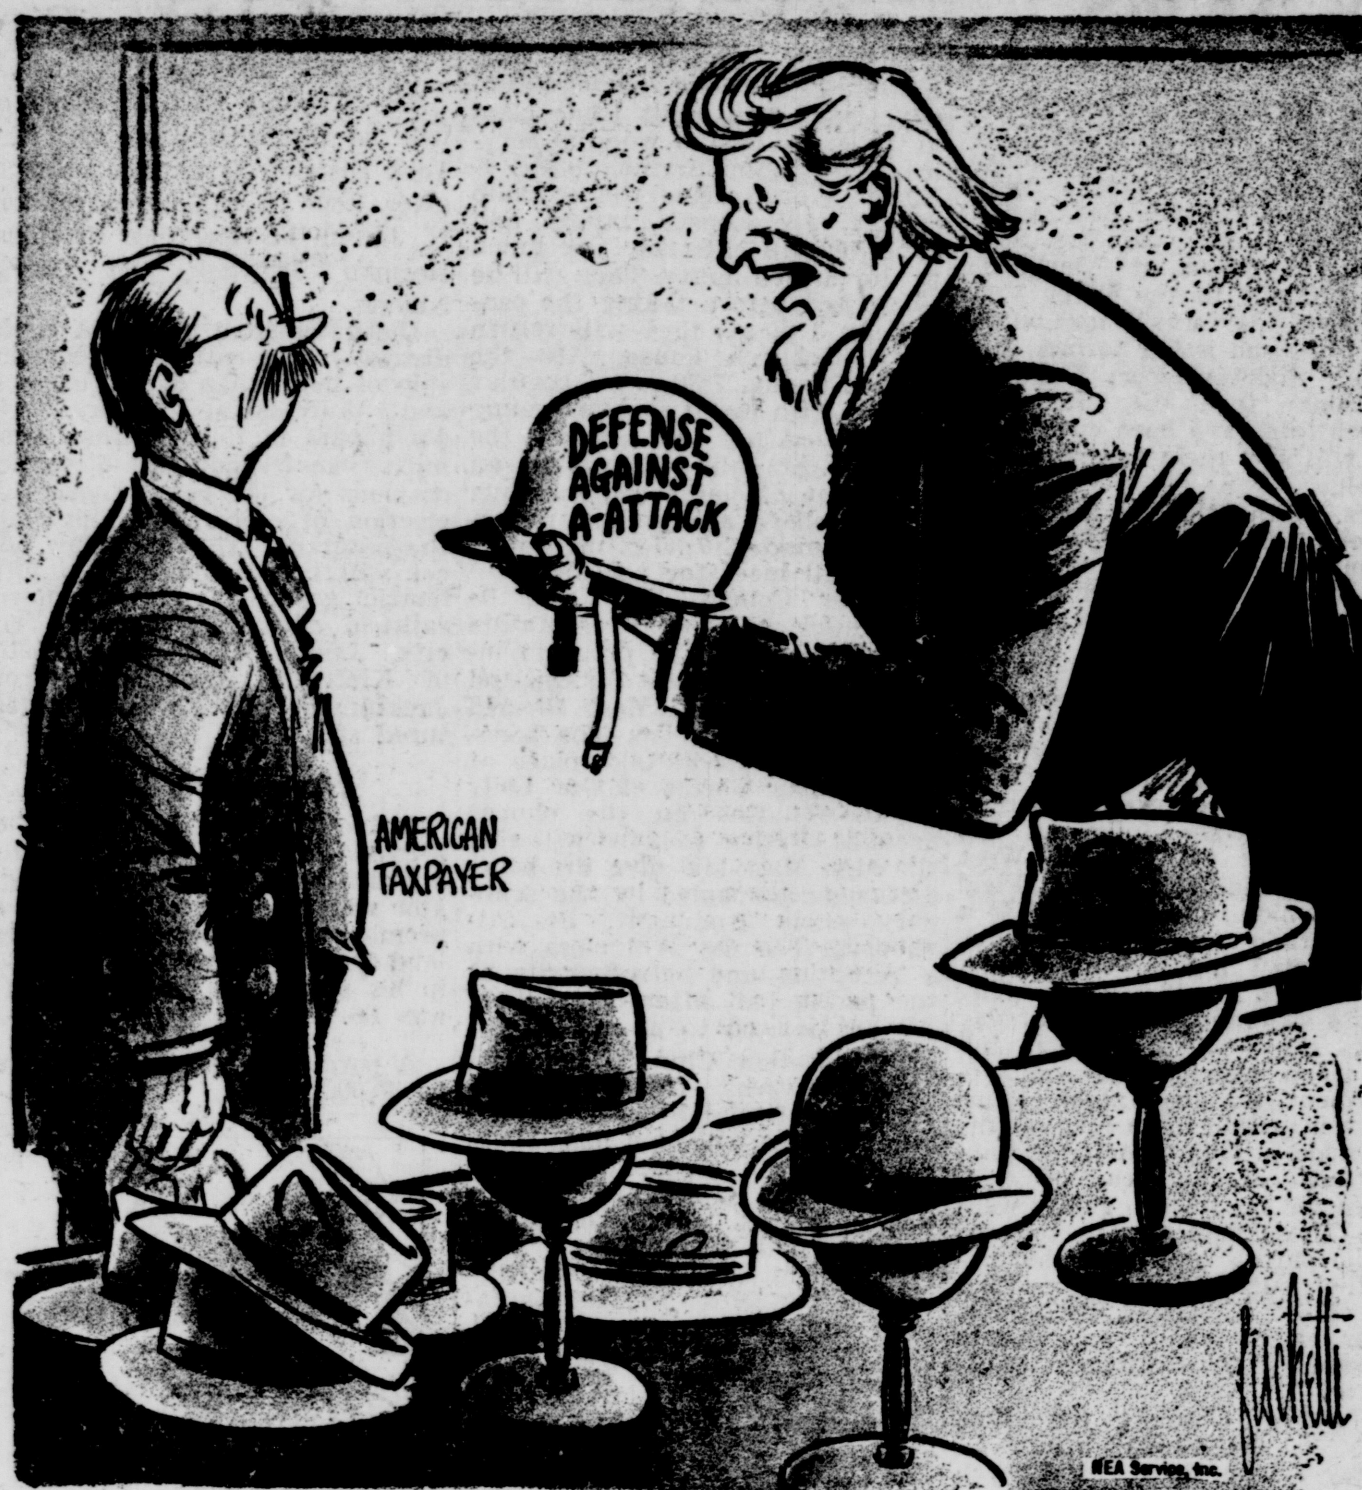

What can be done about chronic illness? The early discovery or detection of any illness is the first thought. "The best method for detecting chronic disease at an early or curable stage would be periodic health examinations." This examination should start with the family physician who not only knows the patient's physical condition but his family and social background which latter forms an important part in the treatment of chronic illness.

"You Can't Afford Not to Be Able to Afford It"

Larsen's Washington News Notebook

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Washington Correspondent
Washington (NEA) — Real teeth have now been put into President Eisenhower's Denver economy message to federal agencies.

He sent the letter after Congress refused to raise the legal debt limitation of $275 billion. Eisenhower does not want to call a special session of Congress should spending threaten to put the debt over that figure.

The order to each agency on how this savings is to be accomplished, which the White House has issued, is a smart administrative device if it works. But it's sure to set up an awful howl from many quarters.

It forces just about every bureau and office in government to start making cuts in personnel and spending as of the start of the second quarter of the present fiscal year. It means that the screams will start when specific services begin to be reduced in October.

It also means the departments will not be permitted to spend all of the money which Congress appropriated for them.

Cuts Are Best-Kept Secret

The size in these new cuts in spending, which the White House has imposed, is a better-kept secret than the number of atomic bombs in the stockpile. In each department, only the secretary and budget officer know the amount. It's the same for bureau and offices down the line.

And woe be to anyone who spills this figure. The White House has let it be known in no uncertain terms that the size of the new cuts is a top administrative secret.

From January to July the President was able to lop 88,000 persons off the federal payroll. The new reductions could be bigger than that.

There are actually two goals in the White House economy move, a spokesman explains. The first is obviously the saving of money. The second is the hope to avoid a package of drastic firings at the start of the next fiscal year, July 1, 1954. This is the way the latter plan will work:

Budget ceilings have been set for the fiscal year '54-'55. They're considerably lower than the last appropriations, in hopes of maybe balancing the budget. Thus the idea of the present cuts is to get the operations of the agencies down to the level by July 1 of next year.

Therefore, for the next nine months there will be steady firings and program cutting to get to that level. The device avoids drastic cuts and firings all on one day. It spreads the reduction over a long period of time, making the whole thing more palatable. At least that's what the White House hopes.

Give Money Back, Maybe
It also means that when administration officials go to Congress for next year's appropriations they can report that they didn't need several hundred millions maybe more than a billion, which had been given them. They will all be turning money back to the Treasury, it is planned, an almost unheard of situation.

By spreading out the cuts over the next nine months the White House also probably hopes to make them less of a campaign issue for the 1954 congressional elections.

The best estimate is that reductions range from five to 20 per cent below amounts appropriated by Congress. The Department of Justice is socked hard, according to reliable reports. Labor, Commerce, Interior, Agriculture and Defense have all been given substantially lowered ceilings.

The White House hopes the cut-back program is well under way by the time Congress returns. Unless there's a special session, the administration will have three months to get going on it before the legislators return and start asking embarrassing questions.

That's one of the reasons for all the secrecy. The White House doesn't want specific congressmen to find out about program reductions which will affect their districts. It is hoped that by spreading the whole thing over nine months they will be able to pull it off with a minimum of complaints.

You may accuse South of overbidding in today's hand, and I may agree with you. I hate to quarrel with success, however, and I am inclined to say that a player is entitled to overbid slightly if he can find a way of making his contract.

When West opened the king of hearts, it seemed to South that he was likely to lose two hearts and a spade. The situation might even have been worse, South feared, since it was possible that East had a six-card heart suit (he had bid the suit, after all), in which case East would ruff the first trick.

Since there was nothing else he could do about it, South gritted his teeth and played the ace of hearts from the dummy. He felt slightly relieved when East followed suit, but this was only the first hurdle. He was still threatened with the loss of two hearts and a spade.

The right line of play was very clear, and South promptly adopted it. At the second trick he led a low diamond from the dummy and ruffed in his own hand. He next got to dummy with a trump in order to ruff another diamond and got to dummy with a second round of trumps in order to ruff out dummy's last diamond.

South next laid down the ace of spades, hoping that the queen would drop. When this slim hope failed to materialize, South led his last spade and closed his eyes.

When South opened his eyes, East had gathered in the spade trick with the queen and was now searching in vain for a safe return. Whether East returned a spade or a diamond, dummy could ruff while South discarded one of the losing hearts. This situation was exactly what South had been hoping for when he ruffed out dummy's diamonds and drew trumps before tackling the spades.

Labor-Union Leaders Are Urged to Remain Cool on Taft-Hartley Act Amendments

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 25 — They may have been cool with their hands of applause at the American Federation of Labor convention in their reception of Vice-President Nixon, who read a special message from President Eisenhower on labor problems, but it is more important that the labor-union leaders remain cool in their heads as Congress approaches the task of amending the Taft-Hartley Act.

It will not do the labor-union officials any good with the country to accuse a man of Dwight Eisenhower's integrity of having violated his word or broken his agreement, and it would be wiser to accept Mr. Nixon's explanation that what occurred was a "misunderstanding" at the White House concerning the status of the proposals made by Martin Durkin, former Secretary of Labor, to change the labor-management law.

The President was very well advised to send Vice-President Nixon to the AFL convention at St. Louis and to let him talk frankly in addition to reading a special message. For Mr. Nixon's words implied clearly that the administration is not going to allow any such impression to grow throughout the country as was fostered in speeches earlier this week by labor-union leaders—namely that the President made and broke an "agreement" just because some members of his staff showed a sympathetic attitude toward some of Mr. Durkin's ideas on amending the Taft-Hartley Act.

If the union leaders want to make an issue of it, there is plenty that can be said by the administration about the real meaning of the amendments Mr. Durkin sponsored. The facts of political life today, as shown by votes in the last election, are that the rank and file of labor is beginning to be unhappy over dictatorships within trade unions and is beginning to resent the bossism which often prevails. When the workers become aware of the absolute tyranny that would have been possible—the control by a clique of union officers of all jobs in certain plants and business establishments—they will be grateful that the amendments were stymied.

Those attending an AFL convention are the paid officials of the unions—the professionals who are in control of the unions and want to stay in control. Under a law like the Wagner act, with the "closed shop," and under the proposed amendments, they could become monarchs and hold the power of life and death over a worker's livelihood. To delegate such governmental power to a trade union is as wrong as it was for the New Deal to try to delegate it to a "code authority" of industrialists under the NRA.

The administration might well consider, if it becomes necessary, taking the case to the country and explaining in detail how the proposed amendments would have enslaved the worker. Such a course would be desirable, however, only if the AFL and CIO declare open warfare on the administration and withhold their cooperation from the efforts that will surely be made in the next session of Congress to try to work out an agreement on amendments satisfactory to both labor and management.

The President pointed significantly to the conferences that lie ahead, and it is up to the labor-union leaders to determine whether they are going to be as adamant as have been in the past when they demanded repeal or nothing by way of corrective amendments. They could have had amendments long before this but they wanted all or nothing.

Incidentally, the newspaper headlines did not emphasize one of the most important things Mr. Eisenhower wrote in his message to the AFL—something that it took courage to say before such an audience: "Even though the past six years have revealed a number of defects which should be corrected, I believe that its enactment (the Taft-Hartley Law) was a substantial contribution to the quest for sounder labor-management relations. I believe that the experience under the act has confirmed its essential soundness."

That doesn't sound like the President is abandoning the Taft-Hartley act, nor did he in his message pledge himself to sabotage the law by amendments that nullify its basic principles. Instead, he promises to cooperate in removing clauses that might lead to possible abuses and in adding provisions to expedite the administration of the statute.

But the whole story from the Administration's standpoint is told briefly in a simple principle which the President suggested in his message might be used as a guide in writing amendments to the existing law. That principle, as he expressed it, is "to allow freedom for the healthy growth of trade unions, while respecting the legitimate rights of individual workers, their employers and the general public."

What the President hopes to accomplish is to make sure that the Taft-Hartley Act remains a law that does not enslave the worker by making him a tool of union bosses but emancipates him so that his civil liberties are preserved. That's liberalism in its best sense. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Boston—The lesson taught by the French people in simply refusing to pay taxes so that Americans have to make up the deficiency is not entirely lost on our people. In fact, a massive tax-dodge has been in progress for years on the part of businessmen who have held back their employees' shares of social security and, after some time, have dissolved their companies without sending either that money or their own matching shares to the internal revenue.

In such cases, the individuals concerned may be charged with embezzlement, but the proportion of indictments and trials, if there have been any, certainly is microscopic in comparison to the number of incidents.

There is no money left to be grabbed by the Internal Revenue and the treasury's policy plainly is to get all that can be taken and throw a couple of rocks after tax-cheaters to scare them and intimidate the honest citizen lest he be tempted to do likewise. The same people can form new corporations a few days later and do the same thing over with little risk.

The treasury has another "policy" of permitting crooks of this kind to "work out" agreements whereby the government abandons the criminal penalties in return for fractional settlements. But it doesn't offer any such bargains to housewives or to self-employed persons on the social security tax.

All this is a piece, morally, with the total cynicism of the French and it has the same discouraging effect on the tiny, individual American taxpayer.

On this point, I have consulted an official of the Internal Revenue Bureau who is one of the best authorities in the service on all phases of the income and Social Security taxes.

It is his considered opinion that the so-called Marshall girls, of Marshall, Tex., have set out on a hopeless campaign in their high-minded effort to get a decision from the Supreme Court on the constitutional questions which they have raised against the Social Security tax on household workers.

It is hopeless because the Supreme Court has the power to refuse to hear and decide any case which it lacks the honor and courage to decide. This court's character and politics bias were openly discussed recently in the speculation as to President Eisenhower's problem of bringing the bench up to strength after the death of Chief Justice Vinson.

The Marshall girls themselves are almost convinced that the court will refuse them a hearing, in which case the principles which their lawyers have held to be flagrantly unconstitutional would be established by default.

However, my authority, a common man himself, with little to show of a material kind for many years of exemplary work and honor, holds out a suggestion whereby millions of American housewives may frustrate this nuisance and get away with it.

The proposition is this: When the time comes to report to the collector of your district, send him neither check, money nor official returns. Instead, just write him a letter about as follows:

"I hereby report that I employed certain persons in and around my household during the three months preceding (insert date). If I owe any social security tax and if I am liable for any money which I should have withheld from their pay, please tell me how much and I will pay you. It will not be necessary for you to attach my bank account and if you attempt to attach it my banker will have in his possession a carbon of this letter proving to him that you have no reason to do so.

If I refuse to fill out any form or do any arithmetic in this matter. That would be work for which the government offers me no pay. However, I simply am not in the market for this job because I hate clerical work and mathematics and I have no time to spare.

At my mutual convenience, I will meet you and give you the names of the persons concerned (Continued on Page 5, Col. 3)

AN AUTUMN WALK

It is wonderful and a vaguely sad thing to take a walk in the autumn of the year. One pauses and regards the glory of the trees with leaves changing to every imaginable color and to a few colors the mind of man is too poor to imagine. All this gives the season a slightly festive air but it is the sort of gaiety a man experiences when a beautiful woman he loves very much comes to tell him goodbye for a time, wearing all her finery in preparation for the trip.

But the sadness of autumn is the sweet sadness of pleasant memories of the summer and joy filters through the reflective mood to call to the mind of the man who walks through autumn the seasons that are ahead. A neighbor is burning the leaves that have fallen and his "Hello" breaks the mood for a moment and remarks are exchanged about what a nuisance it is to have to rake the yard every day.

The sunshine is warm and golden, though not so warm as the sunshine of summer which wilts the collar of the man who walks in it. There is nip in the air in the early morning and it is cool, almost cold at night.

It is a wonderful thing to take a walk in the autumn, to feel the fallen leaves underfoot, to smell the smoke and swing your arms until the blood tingles in your fingertips and you are aware of what a fine thing it is to be a man alive and taking a walk in the world.

DIPLOMATIC REFUGEE

Dr. Marek Korowicz, a member of the Polish delegation to the United Nations in New York, is the most recent prominent refugee from behind the Iron Curtain. Korowicz, an author and professor of international law as well as a diplomat, sought asylum from our government a few days after he arrived in New York City to attend the session of the United Nations General Assembly. He said that he had not sought to be sent to this country, had even discouraged the idea at first. But after a time it occurred to him that his trip to the United States might provide the opportunity to escape from a tyranny he has hated for years.

Refugees such as Korowicz are one source of information about conditions behind the Iron Curtain. He says that 95 per cent of the people of Poland are opposed to communism. Men have a tendency to shape facts to suit their own beliefs and perhaps the percentage is not so high as Korowicz thinks it is. But the number of prominent Poles who have made their way to political asylum through one trick or another indicates that dissatisfaction with the present Polish regime must be high indeed.

Heated socks, which work on the same principle as the electric blanket, are being turned out by a company in Illinois. At last a practical use for an idea first conceived by the impractical joker who gave the first hot-foot.

CHEAP LABOR

Who is to blame for the "wetbacks?" This names denotes the illegal Mexican immigrants, so called because many swim across the Rio Grande to work on Texas farms. Their number may be judged by the fact that last year half a million were turned back by inspectors. As the border is meagerly patrolled, at least as many more must get through.

The "wetbacks" work for wages which an American would scorn. They are preyed upon by sharpers and vicious elements, and because of their poverty-stricken living conditions, help to spread vice and disease. Attorney General Herbert Brownell, investigating the problem, called it shocking and promised administration action.

This has stirred up the people responsible for the "wetbacks," Southern California farmers are crying that "over-zealous law enforcement" is causing a labor shortage. Apparently they oppose limiting the supply of cheap labor. Often all the Mexican farm worker gets is food and lodging; his nominal wages are deducted from his keep. Naturally

NEW YORK ELECTIONS

The city of New York is probably, all-in-all, the largest in all the world. New York houses the major economic interests of the country. Among 8,500,000 human beings, there should be a larger number of managerial brains. New York undoubtedly contains an extraordinarily large number. For instance, the best managed economic units in the United States, the United States Steel Corporation, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Standard Oil Companies of New York and New Jersey are situated in New York.

Nevertheless, the city is not competently managed. Despite local patriotism, which grows angry whenever such an obvious fact is mentioned, it is an unusually filthy city. I travel a good deal and I have never seen an equally unkempt city. Yet, it was, in my childhood, a clean and even beautiful place, except for a few slums.

Under Fiorello La Guardia, the city tried to become a welfare state, thus attracting families who prefer to live on relief to an astonishing number. New slum areas were thus developed; even more, some of the finest streets have been reduced to slums. Yet a citizen, living under such conditions has the same kind of vote as one living on Fifth Avenue—the north end of which is now a blighted area. The politicians try to hold such votes by doing small favors which in the aggregate reduce the finances of the city and benefit no one.

New York is operating one of the largest railway systems—the subways. This requires managerial skill of the highest order. It requires a complete divorce from partisan politics. For years, the subway system was a political football until it was actually bankrupt. Some efforts are now being made to operate it on a businesslike basis, but with only small success. The kind of a man who is willing to be New York's Mayor is generally unfit by training and experience to handle so huge a problem. Few citizens of outstanding capacity have presented themselves for this position in nearly 40 years. The last one was John Purroy Mitchell, who was Mayor from 1914 to 1917.

The recent Democratic primaries disclosed all the weaknesses of a city in which 8,500,000 human beings live. At first, a number of singularly incompetent politicians presented themselves for the nomination, including the present incumbent, Vincent Impellitteri. None of the candidates possesses managerial qualifications. The most competent public administrator the city has known for decades, Robert Moses, declines to run for Mayor because he will not engage in a quarrel over religious, racial and sectarian issues—which is what these municipal campaigns are reduced to.

Robert Wagner, Jr., who won the Democratic nomination, is the son of the Senator who gave his name to the Wagner Act—a law that Lee Pressman, who had admitted that he once was a Communist, wrote for him. The junior Wagner is a personable gentleman but he lacks managerial experience. He is in a political partnership with Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., whose greatest claim is that he is not only his father's son but bears his name. The junior Roosevelt aspires to become Governor of the State of New York, in imitation of his father's emergence to the Presidency.

While handsome, affable, even gay, the junior Roosevelt possesses no managerial skills. He is no more fit to be Governor of the huge State of New York than he would be to manage the United States Steel Corporation. Yet, should Wagner be elected Mayor and come into control of the decadent Tammany Hall, the junior Roosevelt might be nominated as Governor and even elected, a sorry successor to the administratively competent Dewey.

The fact is that too large a part of the better population of New York that works there, lives outside the city limits. Also, many who continue to live in this large city have lost interest in its political affairs. They have thrown up their hands in disgust and disinterest. Thus, too many of those who have a vested interest in the prosperity, competent management of the city, and the orderly processes of municipal administration, do not vote in its elections and play no part in its politics.

In a way, this is understandable because it grows increasingly difficult to vote at all, to make a choice between Mr. Nobody and Mr. Nothing. Therefore, one stops voting. It is all wrong, but it is understandable.

LONG TERM ILLNESS

Now that the span of life has reached 67 years and that the death rate at birth and during the first year of life has been reduced from 3 in 10 to less than 1 in 25, it would seem that the medical profession has reached its limit in fighting disease. While it is true that the life span has been lengthened and that our new drugs are saving the lives of the young and middle-aged at their most productive years, there still remain our older men and women, who may continue to live, but with less comfort than they need, due to chronic illness.

What is chronic illness? In Medical Clinics of North America, New York Issue, Dr. Martin Cherkasky, Director, Montefiore Hospital, New York City, states that "chronic illness is an impairment in health that requires an extended period of medical supervision. This may include ambulatory (patient able to walk about), home, hospital or other institutional care, or various combinations of this care."

Chronic illness may not be disabling. The disability, however, prevents him from following his usual or normal activities. These disabling illnesses are: heart diseases, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, nervous and mental diseases, arthritis, diseases of the kidney, tuberculosis, cancer, diabetes, asthma.

Dr. Cherkasky points out that chronic or long term illness is "hopeless." On the basis of past experience, diseases which appear uncontrollable can be expected, through new discoveries, to be prevented or ameliorated.

All chronic diseases and old age do not necessarily go together. The great majority of chronic diseases occur during ages 15 to 64. However, during the past 50 years, with new methods of preventing communicable diseases, newer knowledge of food values, and the new antibiotics (germ killing drugs), the average life span has been so extended that there are just that many more who, while growing older, have gradually developed chronic disease.

In the disease when the period of illness is short, the disturbance in family and social life is not serious; in chronic disease, aside from pain and disablement, the social and emotional disturbances are of great importance. "The illness sets in motion a whole chain of events which threaten the relationships he has built up with his family and society over many years."

What can be done about chronic illness? The early discovery or detection of any illness is the first thought. "The best method for detecting chronic disease at an early or curable stage would be periodic health examinations." This examination should start with the family physician who not only knows the patient's physical condition but his family and social background which latter forms an important part in the treatment of chronic illness.

Washington (NEA) — Real teeth have now been put into President Eisenhower's Denver economy message to federal agencies.

He sent the letter after Congress refused to raise the legal debt limitation of $275 billion. Eisenhower does not want to call a special session of Congress should spending threaten to put the debt over that figure.

The order to each agency on how this savings is to be accomplished, which the White House has issued, is a smart administrative device if it works. But it's sure to set up an awful howl from many quarters.

It forces just about every bureau and office in government to start making cuts in personnel and spending as of the start of the second quarter of the present fiscal year. It means that the screams will start when specific services begin to be reduced in October.

It also means the departments will not be permitted to spend all of the money which Congress appropriated for them.

Cuts Are Best-Kept Secret

The size in these new cuts in spending, which the White House has imposed, is a better-kept secret than the number of atomic bombs in the stockpile. In each department, only the secretary and budget officer know the amount. It's the same for bureaus and offices down the line.

And who is to anyone who spills this figure? The White House has let it be known in no uncertain terms that the size of the new cuts is a top administrative secret.

From January to July the President was able to lop 88,000 persons off the federal payroll. The new reductions could be bigger than that.

There are actually two goals in the White House economy move, a spokesman explains. The first is obviously the saving of money. The second is the hope to avoid a package of drastic firings at the start of the next fiscal year, July 1, 1954. This is the way the latter plan will work.

Budget ceilings have been set for the fiscal year '54-'55. They're considerably lower than the last appropriations, in hopes of maybe balancing the budget. Thus the idea of the present cuts is to get the operations of the agencies' down to the level by July 1 of next year.

Therefore, for the next nine months there will be steady firings and program cutting to get to that level. The device avoids drastic cuts and firings all on one day. It spreads the reduction over a long period of time, making the whole thing more palatable. At least that's what the White House hopes.

Give Money Back, Maybe

It also means that when administration officials go to Congress for next year's appropriations they can report that they didn't need several hundred millions maybe more than a billion, which had been given them. They will all be turning money back to the Treasury, it is planned, an almost unheard of situation.

By spreading out the cuts over the next nine months the White House also probably hopes to make them less of a campaign issue for the 1954 congressional elections.

The best estimate is that reductions range from five to 20 per cent below amounts appropriated by Congress. The Department of Justice is socked hard, according to reliable reports. Labor, Commerce, Interior, Agriculture and Defense have all been given substantially lowered ceilings.

The White House hopes the cut-back program is well under way by the time Congress returns. Unless there's a special session, the administration will have three months to get going on it before the legislators return and start asking embarrassing questions.

That's one of the reasons for all the secrecy. The White House doesn't want specific congressmen to find out about program reductions which will affect their districts. It is hoped that by spreading the whole thing over nine months they will be able to pull it off with a minimum of complaints.

You may accuse South of overbidding in today's hand, and I may agree with you. I hate to quarrel with success, however, and I am inclined to say just a little bit more. If he can find a way of making his contract.

When West opened the king of hearts, it seemed to South that he was likely to lose two hearts and a spade. The situation might even be worse. South feared, since it was possible that West had a six-card heart suit (he had bid the suit, after all), in which case East would ruff the first trick.

Since there was nothing else he could do about it, South gritted his teeth and played the ace of hearts from the dummy. He felt slightly relieved when East followed suit, but this was only the first hurdle. He was still threatened with the loss of two hearts and a spade.

The right line of play was very clear, and South promptly adopted it. At the second trick he led a low diamond from the dummy and ruffed in his own hand. He next got to dummy with a trump in order to ruff another diamond, and got to dummy with a second round of trumps in order to ruff out dummy's last diamond.

South next laid down the ace of spades, hoping that the queen would drop. When this slim hope failed to materialize, South led his last spade and closed his eyes. When South opened his eyes, East had gathered in the spade trick with the queen and was now searching in vain for a safe return. Whether East returned a spade or a diamond, dummy could ruff while South discarded one of the losing hearts. This situation was exactly what South had been hoping for when he ruffed out dummy's diamonds and drew trumps before tackling the spades.

Labor-Union Leaders Are Urged to Remain Cool on Taft-Hartley Act Amendments

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 25 — They may have been cool with their hands of applause at the American Federation of Labor convention in their reception of Vice-President Nixon, who read a special message from President Eisenhower on labor problems, but it is more important that the labor-union leaders remain cool in their heads as Congress approaches the task of amending the Taft-Hartley Act.

It will not do the labor-union officials any good with the country to accuse a man of Dwight Eisenhower's integrity of having violated his word or broken his agreement, and it would be wiser to accept Mr. Nixon's explanation that what occurred was a "misunderstanding" at the White House concerning the status of the proposals made by Martin Durkin, former Secretary of Labor, to change the labor-management law.

The President was very well advised to send Vice-President Nixon to the AFL convention at St. Louis and to let him talk frankly in addition to reading a special message. For Mr. Nixon's words implied clearly that the administration is not going to allow any such impression to grow throughout the country as was fostered in speeches earlier this week by labor-union leaders—namely that the President made and broke an "agreement" just because some members of his staff showed a sympathetic attitude toward some of Mr. Durkin's ideas on amending the Taft-Hartley Act.

If the union leaders want to make an issue of it, there is plenty that can be said by the administration about the real meaning of the amendments Mr. Durkin sponsored. The facts of political life today, as shown by votes in the last election, are that the rank and file of labor is beginning to be unhappy over dictatorships within trade unions and is beginning to resent the bossism which often prevails. When the workers really become aware of the absolute tyranny that would have been possible—the control by a clique of union officers of all jobs in certain plants and business establishments—they will be grateful that the amendments were stymied.

Those attending an AFL convention are the paid officials of trade unions—the professionals—who are in control of the unions and want to stay in control. Under a law like the Wagner act, with the "closed shop," and under the proposed amendments, they could become monarchs and hold the power of life and death over a worker's livelihood. To delegate such governmental power to a trade union is as wrong as it was for the New Deal to try to delegate it to a "code authority" of industrialists under the NRA.

The administration might well consider, if it becomes necessary, taking the case to the country and explaining in detail how the proposed amendments would have enslaved the worker. Such a course would be desirable, however, only if the AFL and CIO declare open warfare on the administration and withhold their cooperation from the efforts that will surely be made in the next session of Congress to try to work out an agreement on amendments satisfactory to both labor and management.

The President pointed significantly to the conferences that lie ahead, and it is up to the labor-union leaders to determine whether they are going to be as adamant as have been in the past when they demanded repeal or nothing by way of corrective amendments. They could have had amendments long before this but they wanted all or nothing.

Incidentally, the newspaper headlines did not emphasize one of the most important things Mr. Eisenhower wrote in his message to the AFL—something that it took courage to say before such an audience:

"Even though the past six years have revealed a number of defects which should be corrected, I believe that its enactment (the Taft-Hartley Law) was a substantial contribution to the quest for sounder labor-management relations. I believe that the experience under the act has confirmed its essential soundness."

That doesn't sound like the President is abandoning the Taft-Hartley act, nor did he in his message pledge himself to sabotage the law by amendments that nullify its basic principles.

Instead, he promises to cooperate in removing clauses that might lead to possible abuses and in adding provisions to expedite the administration of the statute.

But the whole story from the Administration's standpoint is told briefly in a simple principle which the President suggested in his message might be used as a guide in writing amendments to the existing law. That principle, as he expressed it, is "to allow freedom for the healthy growth of trade unions, while respecting the legitimate rights of individual workers, their employers and the general public."

What the President hopes to accomplish is to make sure that the Taft-Hartley Act remains a law that does not enslave the worker by making him a tool of union bosses but emancipates him so that his civil liberties are preserved. That's liberalism in its best sense.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Boston—The lesson taught by the French people in simply refusing to pay taxes so that Americans have to make up the deficiency is not entirely lost on our people. In fact, a massive tax-dodge has been in progress for years on the part of businessmen who have held back their employees' shares of social security and, after some time, have dissolved their companies without sending either their money or their own matching shares to the internal revenue.

In such cases, the individuals concerned may be charged with embezzlement, but the proportion of indictments and trials, if there have been any, certainly is microscopic in comparison to the number of incidents.

There is no money left to be grabbed by the Internal Revenue and the treasury's policy plainly is to get all that can be taken and throw a couple of rocks after tax-cheaters to scare them and intimidate the honest citizen lest he be tempted to do likewise.

The same people can form new corporations a few days later and do the same thing over with little risk.

The treasury has another "policy" of permitting crooks of this kind to "work out" agreements whereby the government abandons the criminal penalties in return for fractional settlements. But it doesn't offer any such bargains to housewives or to self-employed persons on the social security plan.

All this is a piece, morally, with the total cynicism of the French and it has the same discouraging effect on the tiny, individual American taxpayer.

On this point, I have consulted an official of the Internal Revenue Bureau who is one of the best authorities in the service on all phases of the income and Social Security taxes.

It is his considered opinion that the so-called Marshall girls, of Marshall, Tex., have set out on a hopeless "work out" agreement whereby the government abandons the criminal penalties in return for fractional settlements. But it doesn't offer any such bargains to housewives or to self-employed persons on the social security plan.

Local Breaks Tie With Ryan for AFL

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—A big Brooklyn local has bolted the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), outed from the AFL last Tuesday and disputing with the New York Shipping Association over a new contract.

Local 1199-1 announced yesterday it was breaking away from the union headed by Joseph P. Ryan, and said it was ready to apply for membership in the new Longshoremen's Union to be formed by the AFL.

The local also denounced Ryan's move in cutting the ILA's wage increase demand from 50 cents an hour to 10 cents.

Ryan turned down an 8 1/2-cent offer by the employer group yesterday. The ILA contract with the shipping association expires at midnight, next Wednesday.

The triple-barrelled plight of the ILA—being cast adrift by the AFL, intra-union strife over actual and implied local desertions from the ILA, and a possible strike if a new contract is not signed—caused police officials here to plan for trouble on the waterfront.

Conference Set

Police Commissioner George P. Managhan has scheduled a conference today with representatives of Manhattan District Attorney Frank S. Hogan's office, and the New York-New Jersey Waterfront Commission and others. They will decide how to handle any violence on the docks.

In other actions yesterday, two other ILA locals indicated they may not support Ryan in his contract fight, and two locals said they "would go down the line" for Ryan.

One local leader apparently backing Ryan was "Tough Tony" Anastasia, who had been feuding with the ILA president.

About a month ago Ryan's administration suspended Anastasia when the latter announced he planned to unify all of Brooklyn's 10,000 longshoremen in one ILA local. Later, Anastasia was reinstated.

A strike by the ILA would affect some 40,000 workers here and 20,000 other dockers in other Atlantic coast ports.

More Thieves Return

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—Michael Amagrande, a Brooklyn liquor store clerk, went to police headquarters last night to help police identify two men who held up the shop and stole $250 earlier in the evening. Amagrande said a friend to watch the store for him. While he was gone, three men held up the place and took $15.

Weather Mostly Fair

Rain continued over sections of the southeast and there were showers in midwest areas but elsewhere generally fair weather prevailed today. Temperatures were a little above seasonal level in the Ohio Valley and the Great Lakes region and around normal in other parts of the country.

Lodge Against UN Taking 11 on Jobs

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge says he hopes to upset the United Nations decision affecting 11 American employees of the UN secretariat fired for refusing to answer questions about communism but who later were ordered reinstated or awarded cash indemnities.

Lodge, chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations, testified yesterday at an open hearing of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ill.).

Lodge said the reinstatement and awards order was made by a UN tribunal in Geneva, Switzerland, composed of "foreign lawyers" and having no American representative.

No Understanding

"These individuals (the lawyers) were making decisions of great interest to American public opinion without having an understanding of that public opinion," Lodge said, adding:

"I intend to do all I can to resist it (the verdict) in the coming session of the General Assembly. The General Assembly has the power to overrule it and I would not be surprised, in fact I am optimistic, that we can find grounds to justify the General Assembly in overruling it."

The Geneva tribunal had ordered reinstatement of four of the dismissed employees and payment of damages to the seven others in lieu of reinstatement.

and the amounts involved. But you must do the paper work. Then I will pay you the money."

After tracking down crooks in the black market, crooks in the war contracts and crooks in the RFC, my authority has great sympathy for respectable, genteel American women who have been the victims of this harassment. He assures me that there is no shadow of a criminal violation of the law involved.

The purpose of the law is to collect a tax, not to force these millions of good citizens to perform work without pay. When they express in writing a desire to pay the tax, they put the tax collector in the hole. If millions of them do the same thing, the tax will die the death of prohibition or, more to the point, the death of the French taxes.

Miss Vivien Kellems, an ally of the Marshall girls and their cheerleader throughout a dismal fight, has been flying up and down the country for years, shrilling that some woman has got to get sent to prison for a wilful, flagrant violation of the withholding tax, the baby-sitters' tax or the tax on self-employed persons.

My informant in the revenue service tells me unconditionally that this never will happen because such a prosecution would advertise the treasury's weakness and embolden women all over the country to ignore the tax absolutely. A government which is afraid to fetch even one woman before the bar and give her 30 days in jail would have little zest for a campaign to lock up a million of them.

Typhoon Strikes Saigon

Saigon, Indochina, Sept. 25 (AP)—Several hundred Vietnamese were believed dead and several hundred thousand homeless in a typhoon today which struck a 90-mile stretch of the Indochina coast. The destruction was centered on the ancient Annamite capital of Hue, 325 miles north of Saigon. The American Economic Mission estimated that 90 percent of the population of Hue, a town of 25,000, and the surrounding area were homeless. A typhoon in the same area last year caused 5,000 deaths and left 500,000 persons homeless.

CONSTIPATED?

"I can't afford to lose any time at work. But when I was constipated, I just couldn't work because no laxative gave me the relief I wanted."

"Then a friend told me about Sal Hepatica. So I took some the next time I woke up with that headachy, lousy feeling due to constipation. And, let me tell you, it was just what I was looking for. Why I felt like my old self again within about an hour!"

Yes, take sparkling Sal Hepatica before breakfast and feel fine again... usually within an hour. Or, take it in the evening one-half hour before supper and feel fine again by bedtime! Sweetens sour stomach, too! So keep Sal Hepatica handy in your medicine chest.

BABSON on BUSINESS

New Boston, N. H., Sept. 24—I am writing this near a large bombing range in southern New Hampshire. Owing to the comparable ineffectiveness of the bombers which have been used in Korea the past two years, I was curious to get an answer to four questions.

(1) What Is the Defense Against Ordinary Bombing?

Naturally, the fighter-plane is the best defense against the bomber-plane. This means that speed and mobility determine the battle outcome. The result is that these air battles are being constantly fought higher in the air. Because of this the bombers act with less accuracy, with an increasing cost and with decreasing destructive power.

Cities appear to get accustomed to such bombing. The people resort to cellars and trenches, but do not evacuate their cities. Present bombing has become "one of those things" and no more decisive in battle than the machine gun or the bazooka. One reason why both China and the United States are willing to quit Korea is because of the ineffectiveness of ordinary bombing.

(2) What Is the Defense Against Atomic Bombing?

The original atomic bomb, such as used in Hiroshima in 1945, has been greatly "improved" by increasing the destructive power and by reducing the size of the bomb and its accompanying mechanism. Such bombs can be dropped from airplanes, can be shot from guns or presumably used in guided missiles from submarines or in other ways. Radar is supposed to give cities warning against such bombing; but the time element is very short. The sad fact is that the destructive power of atomic bombing is terrific; and thus far, almost no practical defense now exists against such.

There is also the "H", or hydrogen, bomb, which is much more destructive. These could be dropped from large bombing planes or "planted" in a ship within a harbor, or hidden in the cellar of some enemy spy's house within any city. The first night of the war they might wipe out two or more of our large cities in surprise attacks—like what happened to us at Pearl Harbor. The only defense now appears to be radar and evacuation.

(3) What Are the "Pros and Cons" of Evacuation?

If evacuation is the only protection against atomic bombing, why don't we hear more about it? The reason is twofold. The first reason is the great expense of making arrangements in advance for the mass evacuation of a large city. This would require rebuilding of roads for exit, provision for underground bomb shelters, and the necessary temporary housing and feeding facilities, outside the cities. About 20,000,000 people are now living in the twelve U. S. cities which our government has listed as most vulnerable.

The second reason is the opposition of real estate and other business interests to talk about evacuation. The Chambers of Commerce, the Real Estate Boards, and the Builders Associations of these twelve cities will not discuss mass emergency evacuation. They are terribly fearful that such plans would so frighten people as to start evacuation now! For the people to see great emergency villages now being built in the surrounding rural country, and kept vacant awaiting the dropping of the fatal bomb, might scare them to evacuate now. Yet, perhaps no more building of any kind should be allowed in these twelve cities.

(4) Is Decentralization Surely Coming?

I cannot believe, as many do, that the big cities are already "dead ducks." I, however, do believe that decentralization is to become an important industry. It offers great opportunities to real estate interests, builders and other businessmen. Farm land within 30 miles of large cities will double in value. This rural land will be used for new homes, new shopping centers, new factories and new office buildings.

One more thought: The present "Businessman's" Administration at Washington cannot afford a business depression now. Obsolescence puts a limit to the bombs and airplanes which may be made now to hold in reserve. As the expenditures for the above and other military supplies will be reduced, a great Campaign for Decentralization may be substituted in its place. This could give business another real "shot-in-the-arm." Moreover, the country as a whole, especially the small cities, should permanently benefit from such expenditures.

Local Breaks Tie With Ryan for AFL

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—A big Brooklyn local has bolted the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), outed from the AFL last Tuesday and disputing with the New York Shipping Association over a new contract.

Local 1199-1 announced yesterday it was breaking away from the union headed by Joseph P. Ryan, and said it was ready to apply for membership in the new Longshoremen's Union to be formed by the AFL.

The local also denounced Ryan's move in cutting the ILA's wage increase demand from 50 cents an hour to 10 cents.

Ryan turned down an 8½-cent offer by the employer group yesterday. The ILA contract with the shipping association expires at midnight, next Wednesday.

The triple-barreled plight of the ILA—being cast adrift by the AFL, intra-union strife over actual and implied local desertions from the ILA, and a possible strike if a new contract is not signed—caused police officials here to plan for trouble on the waterfront.

of Manhattan District Attorney Frank S. Hogan's office, and the New York-New Jersey Waterfront Commission and others. They will decide how to handle any violence on the docks.

In other actions yesterday, two other ILA locals indicated they may not support Ryan in his contract fight, and two locals said they "would go down the line" for Ryan.

One local leader apparently backing Ryan was "Tough Tony" Anastasia, who had been feuding with the ILA president.

About a month ago Ryan's administration suspended Anastasia when the latter announced he planned to unify all of Brooklyn's 10,000 longshoremen in one ILA local. Later, Anastasia was reinstated.

A strike by the ILA would affect some 40,000 workers here and 20,000 other dockers in other Atlantic coast ports.

More Thieves Return

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—Michael Amagrande, a Brooklyn liquor store clerk, went to police headquarters last night to help police identify two men who held up the shop and stole $250 earlier in the evening. Amagrande got a friend to watch the store for him. While he was gone, three men held up the place and took $15.

Weather Mostly Fair

(By The Associated Press)
Rain continued over sections of the southeast and there were showers in midwest areas but elsewhere generally fair weather prevailed today. Temperatures were a little above seasonal levels in the Ohio Valley and the Great Lakes region and around normal in other parts of the country.

Lodge Against UN Taking 11 on Jobs

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge says he hopes to upset the United Nations decision affecting 11 American employees of the UN secretariat fired for refusing to answer questions about communism but who later were ordered reinstated or awarded cash indemnities.

Lodge, chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations, testified yesterday at an open hearing of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.).

Lodge said the reinstatement and awards order was made by a UN tribunal in Geneva, Switzerland, composed of "foreign lawyers" and having no American representative.

No Understanding

"These individuals (the lawyers) were making decisions of great interest to American public opinion without having an understanding of that public opinion," Lodge said, adding:

"I intend to do all I can to resist it (the verdict) in the coming session of the General Assembly. The General Assembly has the power to overrule it and I would not be surprised, in fact I am optimistic, that we can find grounds to justify the General Assembly in overruling it."

The Geneva tribunal had ordered reinstatement of four of the dismissed employees and payment of damages to the seven others in lieu of reinstatement.

As Pegler Sees It

and the amounts involved. But you must do the paper work. Then I will pay you the money."

After tracking down crooks in the black market, crooks in the war contracts and crooks in the RFC, my authority has great sympathy for respectable, gentle American women who have been the victims of this harassment. He assures me that there is no shadow of a criminal violation of the law involved.

The purpose of the law is to collect a tax, not to force these millions of good citizens to perform work without pay. When they express in writing a desire to pay the tax, they put the tax collector in the hole. If millions of them do the same thing, the tax will die the death of prohibition or, more to the point, the death of the French taxes.

Miss Vivien Kellens, an ally of the Marshall girls and their cheerleader throughout a dismal fight, has been flying up and down the country for years, shrilling that some woman has got to get sent to prison for a wilful, flagrant violation of the withholding tax, the baby-sitters' tax or the tax on self-employed persons.

My informant in the revenue service tells me unconditionally that this never will happen because such a prosecution would advertise the treasury's weakness and embolden women all over the country to ignore the tax absolutely. A government which is afraid to fetch even one woman before the bar and give her 30 days in jail would have little zest for a campaign to lock up a million of them.

Typhoon Strikes Saigon

Saigon, Indochina, Sept. 25 (AP)—Several hundred Indo-Chinese were believed dead and several hundred thousand homeless in a typhoon today which struck a 90-mile stretch of the Indochina coast. The destruction was centered on the ancient Annamite capital of Hue, 325 miles north of Saigon. The American Economic Mission estimated that 90 per cent of the population of Hue, a town of 25,000, and the surrounding area were homeless. A typhoon in the same area last year caused 5,000 deaths and left 500,000 persons homeless.

CONSTIPATED?

"I can't afford to lose any time at work. But when I was constipated, I just couldn't work because no laxative gave me the relief I wanted."

"Then a friend told me about Sal Hepatica. So I took some the next time I woke up with that headachy, loggy feeling due to constipation. And, let me tell you, it was just what I was looking for. Why I felt like my old self again within about an hour!"

Yes, take sparkling Sal Hepatica before breakfast and feel fine again . . . usually within an hour. Or, take it in the evening one-half hour before supper and feel fine again by bedtime! Sweetens sour stomach, too! So keep Sal Hepatica handy in your medicine chest.

BABSON on BUSINESS

New Boston, N. H., Sept. 24—I am writing this near a large bombing range in southern New Hampshire. Owing to the comparable ineffectiveness of the bombers which have been used in Korea the past two years, I was curious to get an answer to four questions.

(1) What Is the Defense Against Ordinary Bombing?

Naturally, the fighter-plane is the best defense against the bomber-plane. This means that speed and mobility determine the battle outcome. The result is that these air battles are being constantly fought higher in the air. Because of this the bombers act with less accuracy, with an increasing cost and with decreasing destructive power.

Cities appear to get accustomed to such bombing. The people resort to cellars and trenches, but do not evacuate their cities. Present bombing has become "one of those things" and no more decisive in battle than the machine gun or the bazooka. One reason why both China and the United States are willing to quit Korea is because of the ineffectiveness of ordinary bombing.

(2) What Is the Defense Against Atomic Bombing?

The original atomic bomb, such as used in Hiroshima in 1945, has been greatly "improved" by increasing the destructive power and by reducing the size of the bomb and its accompanying mechanism. Such bombs can be dropped from guns or presumably in guided missiles from submarines or in other ways. Radar is supposed to give cities warning against such bombing; but the time element is very short. The sad fact is that the destructive power of atomic bombing is terrific; and, thus far, almost no practical defense now exists against such.

There is also the "H" or hydrogen bomb, which is much more destructive. These could be dropped from large bombing planes or "planted" in a ship within a harbor, or hidden in the cellar of some enemy spy's house within any city. The first night of the war they might wipe out two or more of our large cities in surprise attacks—like what happened to us at Pearl Harbor. The only defense now appears to be radar and evacuation.

(3) What Are the "Pros and Cons" of Evacuation?

If evacuation is the only protection against atomic bombing, why don't we hear more about it? The reason is twofold. The first reason is the great expense of making arrangements in advance for the mass evacuation of a large city. This would require rebuilding of roads for exit, provision for underground bomb shelters, and the necessary temporary housing and feeding facilities, outside the cities. About 20,000,000 people are now living in the twelve U. S. cities which our government has listed as most vulnerable.

The second reason is the opposition of real estate and other business interests to talk about evacuation. The Chambers of Commerce, the Real Estate Boards, and the Builders Associations of these twelve cities will not discuss mass emergency evacuation. They are terribly fearful that such plans would so frighten people as to start evacuation now! For the people to see great emergency villages now being built in the surrounding rural country, and kept vacant awaiting the dropping of the fatal bomb, might scare them to evacuate now. Yet, perhaps no more building of any kind should be allowed in these twelve cities.

(4) Is Decentralization Surely Coming?

I cannot believe, as many do, that the big cities are already "dead ducks." I, however, do believe that decentralization is to become an important industry. It offers great opportunities to real estate interests, builders and other businessmen. Farm land within 30 miles of large cities will double in value. This rural land will be used for new homes, new shopping centers, new factories and new office buildings.

One more thought: The present "Businessman's" Administration at Washington cannot afford a business depression now. Obsolescence puts a limit to the bombs and airplanes which may be made now to hold in reserve. As the expenditures for the above and other military supplies will be reduced, a great Campaign for Decentralization may be substituted in its place. This could give business another real "shot-in-the-arm." Moreover, the country as a whole, especially the small cities, should permanently benefit from such expenditures.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

"TOO DEEP FOR TEARS"

Turn off Broadway at 47th street, head east toward Sixth avenue, and halfway down the block you'll pass a small hotel with a neon sign over the entrance. In the summer of 1923 I lived in this hotel. The rent was $2 a night, and the single window in my room looked out on an airshaft.

When it was too hot to sleep—and it generally was—I'd lie there in the dark and listen to the hodgepodge of voices which came floating in from the airshaft. And it was from the drama that bounced off the walls of the airshaft that I first learned that Broadway wasn't made up entirely of electric signs.

On the floor below me, for instance, an old man used to read poems out loud. His favorite bit of verse was the one with the line "A sorrow too deep for tears." At the time this line didn't mean much to me. I was 23, a happy little lyric writer, and when I used "sorrow" in a song it was merely because it rhymed with "tomorrow."

One day, while chinning with the hotel clerk, I happened to mention the old man. He told me my downstairs neighbor was a retired mailman whose wife had died the previous year. In recent months, he had been coming to the desk every day for change of a dollar, always asking for ten dimes. The curious clerk had followed him one afternoon and discovered what the dimes were for. Every block or so, the lonesome old geezer would be stopped by a beggar, and in each instance he would ask the bum a lot of questions before he handed him one of the dimes.

That was the story of "Too deep for tears." Hungry for a little company, the ex-mailman roamed the streets like a ragpicker, trading his thin dimes for scraps of conversation.

Another bit of drama I remember concerned a couple who lived directly opposite me. After 2 a. m., when most of the windows in their airshaft were dark, the conversation would start up. The man's name was Joe, and no sooner did he get home from his swing-shift job than his wife would start to complain about their son Barney. To hear her tell it, the kid was a brat—always in trouble in school, always disagreeing with his neighbors. "He drives me crazy," she'd shriek. "I wish he was dead!" Then she'd begin whimpering, and I'd hear Joe in a gentle voice explain that—well, kids were kids—you can't judge them like you judge grownups—the boy would straighten out in a number of years.

The thing always ended with Joe saying he would go into his son's room and give him a good talking-to. Then I would hear a door shut. A little later I'd hear the door open, and Joe would come back in and tell his wife that Barney was sorry.

One afternoon I got into the elevator, and right behind me was a man struggling with more bundles than he could handle. When he got off on my floor, I offered to carry one of the packages and, feeling virtuous as all get-out, I followed him down the corridor. "We're sort of neighbors," I said as he opened the door. "I live across the airshaft." When he thanked me, I knew from his voice it was Joe.

His room was an exact duplicate of mine—bed, dresser, a couple of chairs. Stretched out on the bed was his wife, fast asleep. I looked around. There was no door leading to another bedroom. "Where's your son's room?" I asked.

"Son?" said Joe. "I got no son." "Why, every night—" I began. "Joe eased me out into the hall. 'I guess you've been hearing us across the airshaft,' he said. 'I better explain. You see, we once had a son named Barney, but one day he did something bad, and Marge, my wife, holled at him and told him she wished he was dead. Barney ran out of the house crying, and a few minutes later they came and told her—he was run over.'"

"My wife took it awful hard—said it was all her fault—and now at night sometimes, well, her mind plays tricks and she forgets the kid's dead. Me? I humor her along. What's the harm? But I'm sorry if it keeps you awake." "That's all right," I said, "but don't I hear a door open and close every night when you say you're going to talk to Barney?"

"That's the door leading to the hall," said Joe. "I walk out, wait awhile, and then come back and tell Marge the kid has promised to behave..."

This week I picked up a skinny volume of poems by Wordsworth, and in it I came across the line, "A sorrow too deep for tears." Well, maybe it's because I'm not so young any more, or maybe it's because I've seen a lot of things happen, and the line packed a lot more wallop last week than it did 30 years ago.

U. S. Marine Band

324 Lucas Ave.
Kingston, N. Y.
Sept. 24, 1953

Editor, The Freeman:

Upon my return from a vacation my attention was called to Mr. Albert J. Melville's letter to the Editor published Sept. 17, in which he quotes the tour manager of the U. S. Marine Band as stating that in a careful search of their files they were unable to find any previous inquiries or commitments from Kingston.

This bears out my previous comment that the error in stating that this would be the first personal appearance of the band in Kingston was not the fault of the local committee.

Evidently the files of the U. S. Marine Band are not in as good order as some other files.

If Mr. Melville and the band tour manager will consult the files of The Freeman, they will find on page 1 of the Oct. 30, 1922 issue a full account of the U. S. Marine Band concert given in the Kingston Armory the previous day. And in the preceding issues of The Freeman.

Oct. 28, 1922 page 1—The concert on Oct. 29, 1922 will be the first appearance of the U. S. Marine Band in Kingston, and on page 8 a half-page ad.

Oct. 26, 1922 page 8—History of the Marine Band from its founding in 1798.

Oct. 25, 1922 page 7—The Kingston Rotary Club is bringing the U. S. Marine Band to Kingston for the benefit of its Crippled Children and Boy's Work Fund. The complete program for the concert was also in this article. This article also stated that it was costing the Rotary Club nearly $2,000, to bring the band here. (I imagine the present concert is costing much more. The committee is to be complimented and thanked for its energy and enthusiasm in bringing the band here again.)

Oct. 23, 1922 page 4—American Music to be played by American band (U. S. Marine).

Oct. 20, 1922 page 20—Kingston one in 300 to have U. S. Marine Band.

The U. S. Marine Band was front-page news 31 years ago in Kingston. No doubt there were other articles and ads in The Freeman at that time concerning the band, but as I had another appointment I did not have time to delve into the files further. See you all at the concert Saturday.

Motor Vehicle Laws

September 23, 1953

Editor, The Freeman:

Your editorial, "Conflicting Laws" in the September 18th issue of the Freeman advocating uniformity in the Motor Vehicle Laws of the various states focuses attention on a problem, the solution to which, I believe, goes a long way toward promoting safety on our highways. No wonder that the safety minded motorist is perplexed and confused when so simple a matter as passing on the left or right is permitted in some states only when the vehicle is overtaken in the left, forbidden in others and permitted only under certain stipulated conditions in still others. New York State is one of the latter.

Because the unqualified statement in your editorial that "passing a motor vehicle on the right is prohibited in New York" might create the impression that there are no restrictions on this new rule of the road in New York, I should like to point out that the recent amendment to the Vehicle and Traffic Law permits passing on the right only under the following conditions:

(a) The driver of a vehicle may overtake and pass on the right of another vehicle only under the following conditions: (1) when the overtaken vehicle is making or about to make a left turn; (2) upon a street with unobstructed pavement, not occupied by parked vehicles, of sufficient width for two or more lanes of moving vehicles in each direction; (3) upon a one-way street or upon any roadway on which traffic is restricted to one direction of movement, where the roadway is free from obstruction and of sufficient width for two or more lanes of moving vehicles.

(c) The driver of a vehicle may overtake and pass another vehicle upon the right only under conditions permitting such movement in safety. In no event shall such movement be made by driving off the paved portion of the highway. (As amended by Chapter 280, Laws of 1953. Effective March 28, 1953.)

In the interest of safety and the prevention of possible arrests for violations of the law due to lack of understanding, I would appreciate it if you would publish this letter in full.

Very truly yours,
FRANK PRIOR.

Bitter Battle Near Hanoi

Saigon, Indochina, Sept. 25 (AP)—The French Viet Nam drive to unhinge a series of Communist bases in the Red River delta has grown into a bitter battle 30 miles southeast of Hanoi. The attack was launched Wednesday morning at Hung Yen, the key to a network of defended villages and towns in the delta which the French command wants to break up in advance of the expected Communist drive this fall. A high command spokesman said that Gen. Henri Navarre, commander-in-chief in Indochina, attaches special significance to the battle and has sent in some of his best anti-guerrilla units supported by naval forces.

Four Are Arrested In Car Ring Smash

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—The FBI has arrested four men accused of doing a million dollar yearly "business" in stolen cars.

Taken into custody yesterday were: Gabriel Vigorito, 59, of Brooklyn, held in $30,000 bail and alleged to be "king of automobile thieves in the United States"; Sabata Vigorito, 32, of Brooklyn, Gabriel's son, held in $12,500 bail; George De Luca, 52, Brooklyn, the elder Vigorito's brother-in-law, $5,000 bail; and James Murray, 58, of 68-34 75th street, Middle Village, Queens, held in $5,000 bail.

The four were charged with stealing cars, transporting and selling them throughout the country. Assistant U. S. Attorney Jerome Lewis said the quartet pilfered cars in New York and New Jersey, altered motor numbers, repainted them, and faked new papers.

"TOO DEEP FOR FEARS"

Turn off Broadway at 47th street, head east toward Sixth Avenue, and halfway down the block you'll pass a small hotel with a neon sign over the entrance. In the summer of 1923 I lived in this hotel. The rent was $10 a night, and the single window in my room looked out on an airshaft.

When it was too hot to sleep—and it generally was—I'd lie there in the dark and listen to the ebb and flow of voices which came pouring in from the airshaft. The sound of the drums that were being banged on the walls of the airshaft that I first learned that Broadway wasn't made up entirely of electric signs.

On the floor below me, for instance, an old man used to read poems out loud. His favorite bit to recite was the one which begins: "A sorrow too deep for tears." At the time this line didn't mean much to me. I was 13, a happy little lyric writer, and when I used "sorrow" in a song was merely because it rhymed with "tomorrow."

One day, while chinning with the hotel clerk, I happened to mention the old man. He told me why downstairs neighbor was a married mailman whose wife had died the previous year. In recent months, he had been commuting to and from New York for a change of a dollar, always carrying ten dimes. The curious clerk had followed him one afternoon and discovered what the dimes were for. Every block or two, the lonesome old geezer would stop by a beggar, and in each case he'd hand him one dime. I asked him a lot of questions before he handed him one of the dimes.

That was the story of "Too deep for fears." Hungry for a little company, the ex-mailman named the streets like a rag-trader, trading his thin dimes for scraps of conversation.

Another bit of drama I remember concerned a couple who lived directly opposite me. After 2 p.m., when most of the windows in the airshaft were dark, their conversation would start up. The man's name was Joe, and the woman did he get home from his swing-shift job than his wife would start to complain about their son Barney. To hear her tell it, the kid was a brat—always in trouble in school, always disgracing her with the boys. "He drives me crazy," she'd shriek, "I wish he was dead!" Then she'd begin whimpering, and I'd hear Joe in a gentle voice explain that—well, kids were kids—you can't judge them like you judge grownups—the boy would straighten out in a number of years.

Joe saying he would go into his son's room and give him a good talking-to. Then I would hear a door shut. A little later I'd hear the door open, and Joe would come back in and tell his wife that Barney was sorry.

When I got into the elevator, and right behind me a man struggling with more bundles than he could handle. When he got off on my floor, I offered to carry one of the packages and, feeling virtuous as all get-out, I followed him down the corridor. "We're sort of neighbors," I said as he opened the door. "I live across the airshaft." When he thanked me, I knew from his voice it was Joe.

His room was an exact duplicate of mine—bed, dresser, a couple of chairs. Stretched out on the bed was his wife, fast asleep. I looked around and saw no door leading to another bedroom.

"Where's your son's room?" I asked.

"Son?" said Joe. "I got no son."

"Why, every night—" I began.

Joe eased me out into the hall.

"I guess you've been hearing us across the airshaft," he said. "I better explain. You see, we once had a son named Barney, but one day he did something bad, and Marge, my wife, hollered at him and told him she wished he was dead. Barney ran out of the house crying, and a few minutes later they came and told her—he was run over."

"My wife took it awful hard—said it was all her fault—and now at night sometimes, well, her mind plays tricks and she forgets the kid's dead. Me? I humor her along. What's the harm? But I'm sorry if it keeps you awake."

"That's all right," I said. "But don't I hear a door open and close every night when you say you're going to talk to Barney?"

"That's the door leading to the hall," said Joe. "I walk out, wait awhile, and then come back and tell Marge the kid has promised to behave."

Then I picked up a skinny volume of poems by Wordsworth, and in it I came across the line, "A sorrow too deep for tears."

Well, maybe it's because I'm not so young any more, or maybe it's because I've seen a lot of things happen. Anyhow, the line packed a more wallop last week than it did the first time I read it.

Editor, The Freeman:

Upon my return from a vacation my attention was called to Mr. Albert J. Melville's letter to the Editor published Sept. 17, in which he quotes the tour manager of the U. S. Marine Band as stating that in a careful search of the files they were unable to find any previous incidents or commitments from Kingston.

This bears out my previous comment that the error in stating that this would be the first personal appearance of the band in Kingston was not the fault of the committee.

Paris, Sept. 25 (AP)—The North Atlantic Council, governing body of NATO, today announced plans to produce a billion dollars worth of ammunition in western Europe. Britain's Lord Ismay, NATO secretary general, called it the "biggest single program ever presented to the Atlantic alliance." Object of the plan is to get West European factories to manufacture ammunition so the allies can stop depending on U. S. output.

WHEN TO ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

A mother tells me: "I would very much appreciate your advice on the following situation: My daughter is unofficially engaged to a young man whose parents live in a distant city and whom neither my daughter nor I have met. Am I correct in assuming that they should come here to meet us as soon as possible. I do not feel that it would be proper to announce the engagement until this is done. The distance is really not prohibitive and could be made in several hours."

Although it is the duty of his parents to come to see you when they live nearby, the announcement of the engagement has nothing to do with it. It is entirely proper to announce it when you please.

Gloves on or Off

Dear Mrs. Post: Do you think it unsuitable to leave on one's gloves while drinking a cocktail? I have seen women do this on occasions and wondered if it would not be more appropriate to remove at least the right glove.

Answer: I think it makes little difference, although if anything to eat is served with the cocktails, gloves should be removed.

Eating Salad

Dear Mrs. Post: In our house we serve salad on a separate plate but with the meat course. Will you please tell me if it is necessary to include a salad fork in the table setting, or can the dinner fork be used for both meat and salad?

Answer: The same one can be used for both.

Debutante Dance

Dear Mrs. Post: Please give us the wording for a small afternoon tea invitation at which there will be dancing, the party being given for a debutante by her parents. I should like to write these invitations on my visiting cards if possible.

Answer: You may write "Miss Mary Smith, 4 to 6 o'clock and the date"—three close lines right under your name. In the corner you write "dancing" if you want to.

What are the essential requirements for the bride's hope chest? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Leaflet E-5, includes a list of needs for the hope chest and trousseau. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York, 19, N. Y.

WHEN TO ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

A mother tells me: "I would very much appreciate your advice on the following situation: My daughter is unofficially engaged to a young man whose parents live in a distant city and whom neither my daughter nor I have met. Am I correct in assuming that they should come here to meet us as soon as possible. I do not feel that it would be proper to announce the engagement until this is done. The distance is really not prohibitive and could be made in several hours."

Although it is the duty of his parents to come to see you when they live nearby, the announcement of the engagement has nothing to do with it. It is entirely proper to announce it when you please.

Gloves on or Off
Dear Mrs. Post: Do you think it unsuitable to leave on one's gloves while drinking a cocktail? I have seen women do this on occasions and wondered if it would not be more appropriate to remove at least the right glove.

Answer: I think it makes little difference, although if anything to eat is served with the cocktails, gloves should be removed.

Eating Salad
Dear Mrs. Post: In our house we serve salad on a separate plate but with the meat course. Will you please tell me if it is necessary to include a salad fork in the table setting, or can the dinner fork be used for both meat and salad?

Answer: The same one can be used for both.

Debutante Dance
Dear Mrs. Post: Please give us the wording for a small afternoon tea invitation at which there will be dancing, the party being given for a debutante by her parents. I should like to write these invitations on my visiting cards if possible.

Answer: You may write "Miss Mary Smith, 4 to 6 o'clock and the date"—three close lines right under your name. In the corner you write "dancing" if you want to.

What are the essential requirements for the bride's hope chest? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Leaflet E-5, includes a list of needs for the hope chest and trousseau. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York, 19, N. Y.

Former President Harry S. Truman spoke last Sunday on the show and reportedly received $8,000. But this figure never was confirmed by the foundation.

High School Opens Season Tonight Against Highland at Stadium

Two Veteran Elevens Are Ready for Kickoff

Kingston High sends a veteran football array against Highland High in the 1953 opener tonight at municipal stadium.

Coach Bill Burke listed an 18-man roster for the contest and Kingston's tentative starting lineup lists three newcomers to the varsity—Charlie Johnson, Jay Souers and John Turck.

Game time is 8 o'clock. Highland, an ancient tormentor of the Maroon, has a new coach, new system and plenty of new spirit. The southern Ulster array has a liberal sprinkling of lettermen in the line and backfield.

With good autumn weather predicted, KHS officials anticipate a large turnout. Both schools will have their bands out for the pigskin inaugural.

The probable starting lineups:

Delaware, Ohio, Sept. 25 (AP)—A brown coat which wrote a storybook finish to yesterday's "Little Brown Jug" was hailed today as the best of this country's three-year-old pacers.

Apparently hopelessly out of it after losing the first two heats of the $54,971.20 classic, Cleveland's George H. Tipling, speedy and durable Keystoner grabbed the third mile dash and then defeated two other heat winners in an extra jaunt to pick up $21,255.93. It was the first four-heat Jug since the inaugural in 1946, and it wasn't settled until deep dusk had fallen over the Delaware County Fairgrounds half-mile track.

The son of Hal-Lata Long, the pre-race favorite, finished sixth in the first heat, but was only a length back of Hillsota, owned by F. R. McNabb of Ithaca, Mich., as that horse took the second. Newport Chief, sidestepping star of the Newport Stock Farm of Plainfield, N. J., took the opening dash, with Hillsota second, and it looked as if one of them would wrap it up in the third heat. Newport Chief led all the way to the head of the stretch, and Hillsota stormed from far back and headed for the wire.

But Keystoner, under the expert guidance of veteran Frank Ervin, leading grand circuit driver of 1952 from Aiken, S. C., broke out of the pack to nip Hillsota by a neck in a great stretch drive.

Ogden Hanover Cops Westbury Feature

Westbury, Sept. 25 (AP)—Ogden Hanover, five-year-old son of Nibble Hanover created a new record for himself last night in capturing the $4,000 Missouri mile pace in 2:03 4/5.

Fred Bradbury piloted Ogden Hanover to victory by three-quarters of a length over fast-closing Sharon Rose. Until Sharon Rose, driven by Stanley Tweedie, came up in the last one hundred yards, it was no contest for Ogden Hanover who had a three length lead coming into the stretch. In recording its second win of the season Ogden Hanover returned $7.10, $4.50 and $3.70. The third place horse was Bertram Hanover, driven by Al Thomas.

Detroit—Bob Amos, 174 1/4, Detroit, outpointed Arthur Wright, 171 1/4, Detroit, 10.

Marciano Rated Heavier Hitter Than Monte Irvin

BY CHARLES J. TIANO (Freeman Sports Editor)

Heavyweights are the knockout kings of boxing and Rocky Marciano moved into that elite circle with Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis last night at the Polo Grounds.

When the giants of the ring get together the crowd expects action, replete with power punching and knockdowns galore. Seldom are they disappointed in a heavyweight championship match. They weren't last night.

At the end of six rounds we had scored three for Marciano and three for Roland La Starza. Then the Rock connected with a couple of his famous rights and the Butcher Boy from the Bronx was a changed man. It was just a matter of time as the pattern of Marciano's attack began to unfold.

La Starza shattered the myth of Marciano as one-punch killer but he paid a terrible price. The Brooklyn Blockbuster needed a series to chop down his youthful and powerful challenger. La Starza was no doddering old Joe Walcott or punch drunk Rex Layne. But in the end it was the same old story.

Who next for Marciano? Coley Wallace, Harold Johnson, Ezzard Charles, Nino Valdes? We shudder to think what will happen when the Rock connects with a couple to Coley's extremely fragile jaw. Charles will make the Rock look awkward UNTIL...

None of Marciano's last six kazo opponents got off the floor after being tagged until La Starza arose groggy and battered last night. Jersey Joe Walcott stayed down twice. Harry Matthews, Rex Layne, Bernie Reynolds, Gino made just one trip. Marciano's wild swings and misses make him look amateurish and awkward but who can say he isn't one of the greatest punchers in boxing history. The Rock should stay around quite a long spell.

Eddie Fike sang the national anthem and the crowd cheered his versatility. You wouldn't believe it but the sensational tenor got his start right here in Kingston. Joe Louis was the only ex-heavyweight champion present and, naturally, got the biggest hand of the night when introduced by the precise Johnny Addie. The biggest boos were reserved for Commissioner Robert K. Christenberry, Referee Ruby Goldstein and Kid Gavilan. The Bolo Kid was introduced AFTER Carmine Basilio and that might account for the tremendous Bronx cheer. But it was all in good fun. Johnny Bratton, boxing's fashion plate, was dressed on the conservative side. Randy Turpin, the Britisher who formerly held the middleweight crown, received a big hand. Jake LaMotta was among the celebrities introduced and everybody wondered why. Harold Johnson, the Philadelphia heavy who will fight Marciano some day, got a preview of what to expect. Lou Ambers, the old Herkimer Hurricane, was on hand. Dagmar was missing, so was La Motta's beautiful blonde wife.

LaStarza had less bounce to the ounce after Marciano backed him in a neutral corner and unloaded a series of Sunday punches. Extremely agile and surprising up to that point, the Bronx collegian was never the same. The difference between LaStarza and old Pappy Joe Walcott was obvious. LaStarza never budged Marciano with a myriad of counters. Walcott could hurt any man in the world with counter punches.

A couple box denizens agreed on a couple items. It was the biggest crowd at the home of the Giants in many moons. And Marciano was easily the heaviest hitter the Polo Grounds had seen all year.

A heavyweight championship contest is the most thrilling sports spectacle in the world and you can absorb and feel the tension and excitement only at ringside. Marciano settled for the time being the old argument of slugger vs. boxer. In doing so he again proved that there's nothing like a good belt on the whiskers to send a man's education from his head to his feet.

When Ted Williams of the Red Sox hit a home run into the upper deck at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium on Aug. 30 it marked the first time it had been done this season. Then Ted hit one in the same spot the next day.

High School Senior Wins Sailing Title

Larchmont, Sept. 25 (AP)—A victory and a fourth place in the last two races carried Eugene H. Walet, III, New Orleans high school senior, to victory in the North American sailing championships.

Walet, who became eligible when he reached his 18th birthday Sept. 1, wound up the eight-race competition yesterday with 48 1/2 points. With his dad as a crew member, young Walet took over the lead by finishing fourth in the first of the day's races and then nailed it down with a victory in the final sail over the 12-mile Gold Cup route.

Charles Ill of Arlington, Va., representing the Barnegat Bay Y.A., was runner-up for the second straight year with 45 1/2 points. Third with 41 1/2 points went to Jerry Castle of Rochester and fourth to James Ducey of Brookline, Mass., with 41 1/4. John Snedeker of Bellport, and George Fleitz of San Pedro, Calif., were bracketed at 38 1/2 points and a fifth place tie.

The Brooklyn Dodgers hit 49 home runs during the month of August.

BOBBY THOMSON

Hard-slugging Bobby is a good bet to knock in a hundred runs a year! The Flying Scot's famous 9th-inning home run in '51 saved the pennant for the Giants! And the Scotchman believes in doing everything he can to save his car.

"I never worry about expensive cooling-system repairs. I put 'Prestone' anti-freeze in my car—and I'm set for winter, no matter how low temperatures go!"

Yes, Bobby! One shot lasts all winter! And "Prestone" anti-freeze gives your cooling system full 4-way protection—no freeze-ups, no boil away, no rust-clogged radiator, no foaming off. No other anti-freeze gives your car the same complete protection as "Prestone" brand anti-freeze!

The final three games may determine a surprise National League batting champion while the potential winner sits in the dugout nursing an aching hand. The laurels probably will go to Carl Furillo, the Brooklyn Dodger's right fielder. Furillo hasn't played since he broke the little finger of his left hand in a free-for-all at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 6. He ended his season with 165 hits in 479 times at bat, an average of .3445.

But three other men still have a fighting chance. As Furillo waits on the Brooklyn bench in Philadelphia this weekend he will be in the position of a golfer who has finished a tournament with what looks like the winning score knowing there are players still on the course who could beat him.

The three possibilities, in the order of their chances, are Red Schoendienst, the switch-hitting second baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals; Duke Snider, Furillo's centerfield teammate, and Stan (The Man) Musial of the Cardinals, the defending champion and six time batting king.

Here's what they would have to do to catch Furillo, figuring that each will get 12 more times at bat—a good standard figure of four times up in each of the last three games:

Schoendienst needs seven hits. This would give him an average of .3458. Six hits leave him .00044 short of Furillo.

Snider needs nine hits. His average then would be .34576. Eight hits would leave him, too, short by .00040.

Musial, of course faces the toughest job of all. He needs 10 hits in 12 times up to finish with .345.

Schoendienst and Musial will be playing their three games against the Cubs in Chicago. Snider will see action at Philadelphia.

The last time it took four decimal places to determine a batting champion was in 1949 when George Kell, then with Detroit, edged Ted Williams of Boston by a fraction of a point in the American League. Of the three men, Snider has gained the most ground in the last month. He has had 44 hits in 92 times at bat since Aug. 25, raising his average from .313 to .337.

Musial was in a terrific slump during the spring and didn't start to make real progress until after the All-Star game. Like Snider, he's come with a rush in the past 30 days with 49 hits in 120 times at bat, during that spell he improved from .315 to .334.

Arlington Track Re-Opens Sunday

Arlington Speedway reopens Sunday afternoon with the management in the hands of Mutual Racing Association.

Mutual is the organization which formerly sanctioned the speedway and then moved to Rhinebeck Speedway for the past season. Now with Rhinebeck closed for the remainder of the season, Mutual has scheduled its fall championship series at the Poughkeepsie racing plant.

Sunday's race will be over the 100-lap distance. Elimination races, a non-Ford race and 25-lap consolation also are scheduled.

Stan Disbrow, 1953 Mutual champion, is scheduled to head the crack field. Also listed are Howie Westervelt, winner of the last feature at Rhinebeck; Bud Hitsman, Bill Secor, Doug Benjamin and other favorites.

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—Roland La Starza had the heart but Rocky Marciano had the guns, and so the human block of granite from Brockton, Mass., still holds the heavyweight championship of the world today.

Few fighters in the annals of the cruel sport have taken a more brutal beating than the ex-collegian from the Bronx absorbed last night before Referee Ruby Goldstein stepped in midway of the 11th round at the Polo Grounds and cried enough. Outclassed and almost defenseless for the final four rounds, La Starza had done all that could have been asked of him.

Today, just a year and two days since he pulverized Jersey Joe Walcott at Philadelphia to win the title, Marciano stands a colossus athwart the game. With La Starza's star set, probably for good as a serious contender, the Rock has no rival of real stature. He must be accepted as one of the great champions.

Crowd Near 45,000

He proved last night before an awe-struck crowd of 44,562 (gross gate $435,817) that there is nothing to hold him off once he starts moving forward and throwing those oaken arms of his. La Starza tried. He fought back as long as it was physically possible and he tried every stratagem he knew. He made it close for six rounds. Then the roof began caving in on him.

Early in the 11th and fatal round, Rocky rushed his bleeding rival against the ropes and with a lethal succession of left-right-left swings to the jaw slammed La Starza to the canvas for the first knockdown of the fight. La Starza rose on his trembling legs well before the count of nine, but as Goldstein wiped his gloves clean and sent him forth again it was evident that the challenger had made his bid and failed.

Again the Rock barreled in, throwing both fists with all he had, apparently as fresh and relentless as he had been in the opening round. When it was evident that La Starza could not defend against the furious attack, Goldstein leaped to save him. The beaten man stared dully, blood frothing on his lips, and made no dissent.

Starts in Seventh

For nearly four full rounds before that the crowding, relentless champion had been in full charge. He first had hurt La Starza seriously in the seventh when he slugged him into the ropes and for the last two minutes pounded the hapless challenger all over the ring almost without a return. Only La Starza's fighting spirit enabled him to weather the punishment.

The eighth, ninth and tenth rounds followed much the same pattern. La Starza was bleeding copiously from a cut at the corner of his right eye which had been opened in the first round, and a cut on his nose added to the carnage. He fought back spasmodically and occasionally landed flush on Rocky's chops, but he might as well have been using a pea-shooter for all the effect it had on the champion.

Champion Falls

So anxious was Marciano to complete the kill that he missed a wild swing in the 10th and fell in La Starza's corner. His handlers were in an uproar through

Met Open To Cooper

Rockville Centre, Sept. 25 (AP)—Pete Cooper of White Plains captured the 38th Metropolitan Open golf championship yesterday over the 6,520 yard Rockville Country Club course with a 72-hole card of 284, four under par.

The transplanted Florida hog farmer, who shared the lead at the half way with Herman Barron, also of White Plains, was a stroke over par for the final 36 holes as he carded 72 and 73.

Cooper, who was fourth in the 1953 National Open at Oakmont, visited only seven traps in the four winning rounds at Rockville. He was four over par on the first three holes of the final round, with a three-over 7 at the third. He played the last 13-holes in three under with birdies at the sixth, ninth and 12th and pars on the other holes.

Pat Cici, who operates a driving range in Westbury was three under regulation figures for the last of two rounds and finished second, four strokes behind Cooper. Cici fired a third round 69, then matched par with a finishing 72 for 288.

Doug Ford of Harrison, recent winner of the Canadian Open, finished third at 291, a stroke in front of Winged Foot's Claude Harmon, who faltered in the third round with a 77 and took a one-over 73 in the final tour of the tightly trapped layout.

Kingston High sends a veteran football array against Highland High in the 1953 opener tonight at municipal stadium.

Coach Bill Burke listed an 18-man roster for the contest and Kingston's tentative starting lineup lists three newcomers to the varsity—Charlie Johnson, Jay Souers and John Turck.

Game time is 8 o'clock. Highland, an ancient tormentor of the Maroon, has a new coach, new system and plenty of new spirit. The southern Ulster array has a liberal sprinkling of lettermen in the line and backfield.

With good autumn weather predicted, KHS officials anticipate a large turnout. Both schools will have their bands out for the pigskin inaugural.

The probable starting lineups:

Keystoner Grabs Little Brown Jug

Delaware, Ohio, Sept. 25 (AP)—A brown colt which wrote a storybook finish to yesterday's "Little Brown Jug" was hailed today as the best of this country's three-year-old pacers.

Apparently hopelessly out of it after losing the first two heats of the $34,971.20 classic, Cleveland George H. Tipling's speedy and durable Keystoner grabbed the third mile dash and then defeated two other heat winners in an extra jaunt to pick up $21,255.93. It was the first four-heat Jug since the inaugural in 1946, and it wasn't settled until deep dusk had fallen over the Delaware County Fairgrounds half-mile track.

The son of Hal-Lata Long, the pre-race favorite, finished sixth in the first heat, but was only a length back of Hillsota, owned by F. R. McNabb of Ithaca, Mich., as that horse took the second. Newport Chief, sidestepping star of the Newport Stock Farm of Plainfield, N. J., took the opening dash, with Hillsota second, and it looked as if one of them would wrap it up in the third heat. Newport Chief led all the way to the head of the stretch, and Hillsota stormed from far back and headed for the wire.

But Keystoner, under the expert guidance of veteran Frank Ervin, leaving grand circuit driver of 1952 from Aiken, S. C., broke out of the pack to nip Hillsota by a neck in a great stretch drive.

Ogden Hanover Cops Westbury Feature

Westbury, Sept. 25 (AP)—Ogden Hanover, five-year-old son of Nibble Hanover created a new record for himself last night at Roosevelt Raceway in capturing the $4,000 Missouri mile pace in 2:03 4/5.

Fred Bradbury piloted Ogden Hanover to victory by three-quarters of a length over fast-closing Sharon Rose. Until Sharon Rose, driven by Stanley Tweedie, came up in the last one hundred yards, it was no contest for Ogden Hanover who had a three length lead coming into the stretch. In recording its second win of the season Ogden Hanover returned $7.10, $4.50 and $3.70. The third place horse was Bertram Hanover, driven by Al Thomas.

A heavyweight championship contest is the most thrilling sports spectacle in the world and you can absorb and feel the tension and excitement only at ringside. Marciano settled for the time being the old argument of slugger vs. boxer. In doing so he again proved that there's nothing like a good belt on the whiskers to send a man's education from his head to his feet.

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

Newark, N. J.—Bobby Fenty, 132½, New York, outpointed George Collins, 132½, East Elmhurst, N. Y., 8.

Liverpool, England—Wally Thom, London, outpointed Peter Fallon, London, 15 (for British welterweight title).

When Ted Williams of the Red Sox hit a home run into the upper deck at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium on Aug. 30 it marked the first time it had been done this season. Then Ted hit one in the same spot the next day.

Archery Experts Point For State Competition Sunday at Hudson

The locals placed fourth in the team aggregate, with Vince Secor scoring a first with 439 points in the archers division. Bob Smith was second with 371 points and Dorothea Walthery, the keggerette, placed first with 110 points in the women's novice division.

Ruth Secor rolled up 52 points for third place in the women's novice.

High School Senior Wins Sailing Title

Larchmont, Sept. 25 (AP)—A victory and a fourth place in the last two races carried Eugene H. Waleit, III, New Orleans high school senior, to victory in the North American sailing championships.

Waleit, who became eligible when he reached his 18th birthday Sept. 1, wound up the eight-race competition yesterday with 48½ points. With his dad as a crew member, young Waleit took over the lead by finishing fourth in the first of the day's races and then nailed it down with a victory in the final sail over the 12-mile Gold Cup route.

Charles III of Arlington, Va., representing the Barnegat Bay YRA, was runner-up for the second straight year with 45½ points. Third with 41½ points went to Jerry Castle of Rochester and fourth to James Dukey of Brookline, Mass., with 41½. John Snicker of Bellport, and George Fleitz of San Pedro, Calif., were bracketed at 38½ points and a fifth place tie.

The Brooklyn Dodgers hit 49 home runs during the month of August.

SAVING SCOT

BOBBY THOMSON

Hard-slugging Bobby is a good bet to knock in a hundred runs a year! The Flying Scot's famous 9th-inning home run in '51 saved the pennant for the Giants! And the Scotchman believes in doing everything he can to save his car.

"I never worry about expensive cooling-system repairs. I put 'Prestone' anti-freeze in my car—and I'm set for winter, no matter how low temperatures go!"

Yes, Bobby! One shot lasts all winter! And "Prestone" anti-freeze gives your cooling system full 4-way protection—no freeze-ups, no boil away, no rust-clogged radiator, no foaming off. No other anti-freeze gives your car the same complete protection as "Prestone" brand anti-freeze!

The final three games may determine a surprise National League batting champion while the potential winner sits in the dugout nursing an aching hand. The laurels probably will go to Carl Furillo, the Brooklyn Dodger's right fielder. Furillo hasn't played since he broke the little finger of his left hand in a free-for-all at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 6. He ended his season with 165 hits in 479 times at bat, an average of .3445.

But three other men still have a fighting chance. As Furillo waits on the Brooklyn bench in Philadelphia this weekend he will be in the position of a golfer who has finished a tournament with what looks like the winning score but knowing there are players on the course who could beat him.

The three possibilities, in the order of their chances, are Red Schoendienst, the switch-hitting second baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals; Duke Snider, Furillo's centerfield teammate, and Stan (The Man) Musial of the Cardinals, the defending champion and six time batting king.

The Formula

Here's what they would have to do to catch Furillo, figuring that each will get 12 more times at bat—a good standard figure of four times up in each of the last three games.

Schoendienst needs seven hits. This would give him an average of .3458. Six hits leave him .0004 short of Furillo.

Snider needs nine hits. His average then would be .34576. Eight hits would leave him, too, short by .00040.

Musial, of course faces the toughest job of all. He needs 10 hits in 12 times up to finish with .344.

Schoendienst and Musial will be playing their three games against the Cubs in Chicago. Snider will see action at Philadelphia.

The last time it took four decimal places to determine a batting champion was in 1949 when George Kell, then with Detroit, edged Ted Williams of Boston by a fraction of a point in the American League.

Of the three men, Snider has gained the most ground in the last month. He has had 44 hits in 92 times at bat since Aug. 25, raising his average from .313 to .337.

Musial was in a terrific slump during the spring and didn't start to make real progress until after the All-Star game. Like Snider, he's come with a rush in the past 30 days with 49 hits in 120 times at bat, during that spell he improved from .315 to .334.

Arlington Track Re-Opens Sunday

Arlington Speedway reopens Sunday afternoon with the management in the hands of Mutual Racing Association.

Mutual is the organization which formerly sanctioned the speedway and then moved to Rhinebeck Speedway for the past season. Now with Rhinebeck closed for the remainder of the season, Mutual has scheduled its fall championship series at the Poughkeepsie racing plant.

Sunday's race will be over the 100-lap distance. Elimination races, a non-Ford race and 25-lap consolation also are scheduled.

Stan Disbrow, 1953 Mutual champion, is scheduled to head the crack field. Also listed are Howie Westervelt, winner of the last feature at Rhinebeck; Bud Hittman, Bill Secor, Doug Benjamin and other favorites.

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—Roland La Starza had the heart but Rocky Marciano had the guns, and so the human block of granite from Brockton, Mass., still holds the heavyweight championship of the world today.

Few fighters in the annals of the cruel sport have taken a more brutal beating than the ex-collegian from the Bronx absorbed last night before Referee Ruby Goldstein stepped in midway of the 11th round at the Polo Grounds and cried enough. Outclassed and almost defenseless for the final four rounds, La Starza had done all that could have been asked of him.

Today, just a year and two days since he pulverized Jersey Joe Walcott at Philadelphia to win the title, Marciano stands a colossus athwart the game. With La Starza's star set, probably for good as a serious contender, the Rock has no rival of real stature. He must be accepted as one of the great champions.

Crowd Near 45,000

He proved last night before an awe-struck crowd of 44,562 (gross gate $435,817) that there is nothing to hold him off once he starts moving forward and throwing those oaken arms of his. La Starza tried. He fought back as long as it was physically possible and he tried every stratagem he knew. He made it close for six rounds. Then the rock began caving in on him.

Early in the 11th and fatal round, Rocky rushed his bleeding rival against the ropes and with a lethal succession of left-right-left swings to the jaw slammed La Starza to the canvas for the first knockdown of the fight. La Starza rose on his trembling legs well before the count of nine, but as Goldstein wiped his gloves clean and sent him forth again it was evident that the challenger had made his bid and failed.

Again the Rock barreled in, throwing both fists with all he had, apparently as fresh and relentless as he had been in the opening rounds. When the champion had La Starza could not defend against the furious attack, Goldstein leaped to save him. The beaten man stared dully, blood frothing on his lips, and made no dissent.

Starts in Seventh

For nearly four full rounds before that the crowding, relentless champion had been in full charge. He first had hurt La Starza seriously in the seventh when he slugged him into the ropes and for the last two minutes pounded the hapless challenger all over the ring almost without a return. Only La Starza's fighting spirit enabled him to weather the punishment.

The eighth, ninth and tenth rounds followed much the same pattern. La Starza was bleeding copiously from a cut at the corner of his right eye which had been opened in the first round, and a cut on his nose added to the carnage. He fought back spasmodically and occasionally landed flush on Rocky's chops, but he might as well have been using a pea-shooter for all the effect it had on the champion.

Champion Falls

So anxious was Marciano to complete the kill that he missed a wild swing in the 10th and fell in La Starza's corner. His handlers were in an uproar through

Met Open To Cooper

Rockville Centre, Sept. 25 (AP)—Pete Cooper of White Plains captured the 38th Metropolitan Open golf championship yesterday over the 6,520 yard Rockville Country Club course with a 72-hole card of 284, four under par.

The transplanted Florida hog farmer, who shared the lead at the half way with Herman Barron, also of White Plains, was a stroke over par for the final 36 holes as he carded 72 and 73.

Cooper, who was fourth in the 1953 National Open at Oakmont, visited only seven traps in the four winning rounds at Rockville. He was four over par on the first three holes of the final round, with a three-over 7 at the third. He played the last 13-holes in three under with birdies at the sixth, ninth and 12th and pars on the other holes.

Pat Cici, who operates a driving range in Westbury was three under regulation figures for the last two rounds and finished second, four strokes behind Cooper. Cici fired a third round 69, then matched par with a finishing 72 for 288.

Doug Ford of Harrison, recent winner of the Canadian Open, finished third at 291, a stroke in front of Winged Foot's Claude Harmon, who faltered in the third round with a 77 and took a one-over 73 in the final tour of the tightly trapped layout.

Notre Dame-Oklahoma Headlines First Major Day of Football Season

New York, Sept. 25 (AP)—Major football powers risk their pre-season ratings against eager potential spoilers this weekend with the winner of the Notre Dame-Oklahoma struggle assured of strong support as the nation's best.

An overflow crowd of 60,000 is expected to witness the Irish-Southern spectacle at Norman, Okla. Pitting the No. 1 and No. 6 teams, respectively, in a contest that could go a long way toward determining the national championship. Irish halfback Johnny Lattner may not be able to go all the way because of a minor injury. Converted halfback Buddy Leake could give favored Notre Dame fits in his role as Oklahoma's split-T quarterback.

Michigan State and Georgia Tech seek to protect impressive unbeaten strings against Iowa and Florida. Hawkeye coach Forest Evashevski, formerly under Biggie Munn at Michigan State, is going all out to try to spoil his old boss' Big Ten debut. The Spartans have gone 24 games without a loss.

Florida After Tech
A Florida team that just missed stopping Tech in a 17-14 thriller last year has its eye on the 27 game defeatless skin of the Engineers, but Bobby Dodd's crew is expected to make it 28.

Southern California plays host to Minnesota in a contest heralded as a clash between tailbacks—USC's national honors candidate Aramis Dandoy and the Gophers' All-America Paul Giel.

Penn embarks on a murderous tussle against Vanderbilt with tailback Walt Hynoski hampered by a shoulder injury. The Commodores bring along a healthy Bill Krietemeyer, looking better than ever in the new split-T.

Mississippi State counts on Jackie Parker to lead them in an invasion of Tennessee's home ground. Ohio State, voted by many as the most likely to succeed in the Big Ten, opens its campaign with Indiana.

LSU vs. Bama
Alabama, out to avoid a repetition of its unexpected 25-19 loss to Mississippi Southern, meets a surprisingly good Louisiana State aggregation that stunned Texas last week.

In the NCAA television "special" Holy Cross matches the speed of Lou Hettinger and power of Chick Murphy against Dartmouth's "thin" forces.

Elsewhere in the east, Navy unveils its 53 edition of Lee Eikenauer and Dick Olson leading a bone-crushing line against William and Mary's aggressive Indians.

In other games Duke looks for its second straight Atlantic Coast Conference triumph over Wake Forest. Georgia pits its Zeke Bratkowski-powered aerial arm against Tulane's hard-running Max McGee. Kentucky squares off against Louisville. North Carolina and North Carolina State renew their traditional rivalry and Maryland meets Washington and Lee.

All-veteran Purdue and Missouri, Pitt and West Virginia, Wisconsin and Penn State, Washington and Michigan, Iowa State and Northwestern, Nebraska and Illinois, Houston and Texas A&M, Villanova and Texas, Oklahoma A&M and Arkansas, California and Oregon State, Oregon and Stanford, Army and Furman, Cornell and Colgate, Temple and Syracuse and Princeton and Lafayette tangle in other major contests.

UCLA gets a jump on the others by facing Kansas tonight.

When Ty Cobb was 41 years old he had batted 357 for the Philadelphia Athletics.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

If the Dodgers beat the Yankees with their pitching, it will be the biggest miracle since Bobby Thomson's home run made Leo Durocher a master mind.

The Dodgers repeatedly murder left-hand pitching, but Bob Kuzava stopped them in the clutch in the last two series. Charlie Dressen is looking for a third pitcher. Casey Stengel, on the other hand, had so many pitchers he didn't know who to start.

They speak of the Dodgers' power but Roy Campanella, Carl Furillo, Jackie Robinson and Gil Hodges never have given the New York Americans exactly fits. And nobody takes extreme liberties with Whitey Ford or Eddie Lopat on a good day.

Duke Snider behaved like a real pro last trip and may do it again. The other power boys never untracked themselves against Yankee pitching. Hodges was nearly ruined when he went 21 for 0 last fall, when Campanella batted .214, Furillo .174, Robinson .174. The Dodgers batted .230 against the Yankees in 1946, .210 in 1949 and .215 last trip.

Campanella has hit only one home run and .233 in two series. Furillo batted .229 in three, has yet to manufacture a home run. Robinson has been below .200 two out of three years. His best was .250 as a rookie. Hodges has an average of .103 in three series with four hits in 39 times at bat.

Sure, this is the strongest Brooklyn Dodger team ever to represent the National League. But is there any guarantee that it won't behave just like the other editions from the Gowanus?

An Old Guard Baseballman Passes On:

The death of Elijah T. Russell, 77, a prominent Poughkeepsie lawyer removed from the Hudson valley baseball scene one of the Old Guard promoters in the Golden Era of the late 1920s and mid 30s. Russell sponsored the fabulous squad known as the Millbrook Millionaires who tangled frequently with John McCardie's Kingston All Stars. They were a stellar group headed by the inimitable southpaw pitcher, Howard "Specs" Ellis. They had a third sacker named Bates, who could throw like a rifle shot and drew big stars in Buck Gross, Dick Humston, Lefty Atwood, Big Bill Shay and others. Russell belonged to that pioneer baseball group that included John T. Hoffman, Freddie Whetmore, Sheriff Cookingham, Freddie Dahn is the last survivor of that crowd. Fred Davis's boosters score another hit with the Oct. 11 promotion at the stadium. Among major leaguers who have appeared in Kingston in the past under Fred's aegis were Joe DiMaggio, Carl Furillo, Charlie Keller, Randy Gumpert, Wes Westrum, Gene Hermanski, Sid Gordon, Frank Shea, Aaron Robinson and others. Saugerties High is trying 11-man football this season under Coach Bill Straub.

Bill Ryan, the Newburgh Jewel impresario apparently is under the impression that the Jewels were "lobbed" of their stormy game in Kingston last Sunday. The Hill City brass is making much ado about the fact that Umpire Bud Zoller did not warn the Jewels before making his historic decision. There is nothing in the rule book about warning anybody at anytime. The series is over and the feeling here is that the incident should be forgotten.

Paradise Who Became Lou Ambers:

Lou Ambers spent a couple weeks at Rocky Marciano's training camp at Grossingers as a guest of his old manager, Al Weill, the Man With the Split Bull, who piloted the former Herkimer Hurricane to the world lightweight championship. Ambers recalled his Kingston amateur fighting days as "Otis Paradise" when the sport was enjoying a tremendous boom here. He remembered his classic brawl with Buddy Emerson and men like the late Sam Riber and Joe Kelly, who were responsible for the high interest in boxing at that time. Barney Ross, a Grossinger regular, held out slim hope for La Starza. He predicted that the Butcher Boy from the Bronx would freeze at the opening bell and might get knocked out in two rounds. Joe Louis followed in the pattern of Jack Dempsey. He still retains tremendous popularity and was the target of hundreds of autograph seekers at the Yom Kippur party that featured Henry Youngman. They all approach Joe with a familiar line: "Hello Joe, I saw you . . . fight . . . I never missed one of your fights. . . . Louis is as humble as the day he was born, appreciates the fan interest but once remarked to us, "If all the fans saw me who claim they did, there must have been a hundred thousand fans at every one of my bouts . . ."

Then there was the time when Dr. Saul Goldfarb, the dentist, who, absent-mindedly lining up a six-foot putt, stared at the hole and said, "open wider, please."

Crispell, Kelder Lead Keglers With 633-247

A couple of "pros" took over the high scoring roles in last night's tenpin session in Kingston, much to the surprise of nobody.

Virgil "Whitey" Crispell rolled 633 for the Gov. Clinton Market powerhouse with 209-197-233, while teammate Randy Kelder fired a 247 solo. The Marketeters knocked down 903-103-971 for 2904 high team series.

Jack Houghtaling was top man in the Hercules circuit with 188-178-529. Charlie DeCicco's 207 solo led the Electro Night Shift and George Barringer stacked 162-175-186 for high string of 533.

Emma Pratt's 187 and Jennie Spada's 182-161-179 accounted for individual highs in the Central Rec Women's loop and Joan Garafola scored a similar sweep with 165-150-133-450 in the Hercules Women's League.

Pratt Hits 503

Boice 422, Kay Broadhead 468, M. Mills 435, Pat Pearson 489, N. Winne 437, Ellen Hutton 424, Thelma Garon 475.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By WARREN PAGE
(Shooting Editor)

This angling chap had finally left, after filling my gun room with a fishy smell and a lot of tall tales about muskellunge so big they had to be shot in the skull with a .22 pistol before they could be slid into the boat. After I had aired out the room I fell to thinking about the business of shooting fish.

You know the old adage about shooting fish in a barrel—and it's true, in that whether or not your bullet actually hits your prospective chowder, the concussion of the bullet's impact striking that relatively incompressible water will either disconnect a fish's nervous system or pop his air bladder and bring him helpless to the surface.

But if the fish is deep down you won't fetch him with a bullet. Not because you'll miss him, although the refractive index of water makes the fish seem to be where he ain't, but because in big water the shock effect is dissipated before it reaches him. Your bullet itself won't drive very deep in water anyway, even if you do happen to aim right.

Will Sentence McManus On Murder Tomorrow

Canandaigua, Sept. 25 (AP)—Fred Eugene McManus, who has been found guilty of first-degree felony murder in the pistol-slaying of William Allen Braverman, will be sentenced here tomorrow.

Justice H. Douglas VanDuser set the time at 9 a. m. after a State Supreme Court jury of 10 men and two women yesterday returned the guilty verdict with a recommendation that McManus be imprisoned for life.

The 19-year-old Valley Stream youth could be sentenced to death in the electric chair despite the jury's recommendations. In most cases, however, the jury's recommendation is followed.

McManus, who has confessed four other killings, showed no emotion as the verdict was announced and the jury individually polled.

A moment later he squeezed the shoulder of his father, brewery executive Mose McManus, then grinned broadly as he was led away to the Ontario County Jail.

The jury received the case Wednesday and deliberated more than 13 hours before arriving at a verdict.

All Gubernatorial Candidates Remain

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP)—A midnight deadline past, none of the candidates for governor of New Jersey were reported today to have withdrawn from the race. The November 3 election now appeared certain to be a four-way battle between Democrat Robert B. Meyner, Republican Paul L. Troast, and Independents Cledin J. Ryan and Henry Krajewski.

Particular attention in the withdrawal deadline was focused on Krajewski, Secaucus pig farmer, who had told of a written agreement for him to drop out of the campaign and to be replaced by Elmer H. Wene, Vineland chick breeder.

But Wene's attorney said yesterday his client has decided against trying to run as an Independent because of inadequate financial backing. Wene was defeated in the April Democratic primary by Meyer. There were no withdrawals when the Secretary of State's office closed at 5 p. m. yesterday. However, withdrawals could be telegraphed in or sent by mail before midnight.

Rita, Haymes Married In Las Vegas Hotel

Las Vegas, Nev., Sept. 25 (AP)—Rita Hayworth and Dick Haymes are on the fourth honeymoon for each of them today following a brief flashbulb-lit wedding in a gambling resort hotel.

"I feel wonderfully happy," the red-haired bride said after the three-minute ceremony. "I am married to the man I really love. It sounds so wonderful to be called Mrs. Haymes."

The movie star and the crooner fly to New York Saturday and later to Philadelphia, where the bridegroom starts a night club engagement Monday night.

"Our careers, in fact, nothing, will ever separate us," Rita declared. She said she'll travel with Haymes on his night club tour. They have rented a house in Greenwich, Conn. Miss Hayworth said she'll commute between there and Hollywood for one picture a year.

The ceremony was performed by Judge Frank MacNamee in the Gold Room of the Sands Hotel.

All Gubernatorial Candidates Remain

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP)—A midnight deadline past, none of the candidates for governor of New Jersey were reported today to have withdrawn from the race.

The November 3 election now appeared certain to be a four-way battle between Democrat Robert B. Meyner, Republican Paul L. Troast, and Independents Clendenin J. Ryan and Henry Krajewski.

Particular attention in the withdrawal deadline was focused on Krajewski, Secaucus pig farmer, who had told of a written agreement for him to drop out of the campaign and to be replaced by Elmer H. Wene, Vineland chick breeder.

But Wene's attorney said yesterday his client has decided against trying to run as an Independent because of inadequate financial backing. Wene was defeated in the April Democratic primary by Meyer. There were no withdrawals when the Secretary of State's office closed at 5 p. m. yesterday. However, withdrawals could be telegraphed in or sent by mail before midnight.

Rita, Haymes Married In Las Vegas Hotel

Las Vegas, Nev., Sept. 25 (AP)—Rita Hayworth and Dick Haymes are on the fourth honeymoon for each of them today following a brief flashbulb-lit wedding in a gambling resort hotel.

"I feel wonderfully happy," the red-haired bride said after the three-minute ceremony. "I am married to the man I really love. It sounds so wonderful to be called Mrs. Haymes."

The movie star and the crooner fly to New York Saturday and later to Philadelphia, where the bridegroom starts a night club engagement Monday night.

"Our careers, in fact nothing, will ever separate us," Rita declared. She said she'll travel with Haymes on his night club tour. They have rented a house in Greenwich, Conn. Miss Hayworth said she'll commute between there and Hollywood for one picture a year.

The ceremony was performed by Judge Frank MacNamee in the Gold Room of the Sands Hotel.
